CITY COUNCIL RECOGNIZES MUHLEMAN IS OUT

Official Minutes Stipulate Vacancy; 4-Year Term Looms For Kinch

The seat of F. L. Muhleman in the City Council has been declared vacant by the other four members of that body.

As a result, the position of Sam A. Davis, who yesterday announced himself still a member of the city body, and his intention to retain his place until a successor is legally elected and qualified, has been strengthened somewhat.

This was learned when the minutes of the council as compiled by City Clerk A. J. Van Wie officially stipulate a vacancy on the council, in opposition to a recent decision of City Attorney Ray Morrow who advised against any action until fifteen days had elapsed from the time Muhleman was notified of his election. The fifteen days will not have elapsed until May 2.

Official Minutes

The minutes show for the roll call, and for every vote, the ayes, the noes, absent, none and vacancy one.

At the first meeting of the new council, however, Muhleman's name was called on roll call and official minutes showed him recorded as being "absent." Muhleman was seated in the audience at the time his name was called but did not respond. He had previously notified the council by letter that he was not eligible to take the oath of office.

Davis, in his statement to the council yesterday, when he refused to give up his seat in that body, declared that Muhleman was not a qualified candidate and therefore should not have been declared elected. Under the provisions of the charter the five candidates who receive the highest number of votes are elected to the council. That, according to Davis, would eliminate Muhleman, who was an "illegal candidate," and would place S. S. Gilhuly, the candidate who received the next highest number of votes, in the council.

Four Years for Kinch

If the contention of Davis and others is correct and Gilhuly is a councilman, then Kinch, instead of being holder of a two year term will serve for four years, the charter providing that the three candidates having the highest vote take the four year term and the two having the next highest vote take the two year term.

At the election MacBain received the highest vote, Muhleman was next, then Tower, then Kinch, then Kimlin. Gilhuly was sixth. With Muhleman disquali-

NOOSE CLAIMS 'TUFFY' REID AT PRISON

Former Newsboy Goes To Death Calmly; Mother Prays In Church

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., April 24.—Clarence (Tuffy) Reid, Los Angeles newsboy, was hanged here today for the murder of Charles Weingarten, Los Angeles merchant.

The trap was sprung at 10:02 o'clock, and Reid was pronounced dead at exactly 10:15 o'clock. He went to the gallows calmly and made no statement. Seventy-five persons witnessed the execution.

Reid's mother, Mrs. Katie Reid, and his 19-year-old sister, were praying in a San Francisco church at the time the 21-year-old newsboy plunged down the gallows trap.

Writes Mother

"Mamma and Agnes are all right. Love.—Mother."

With this message from his mother grasped in his hands, Reid began his march to the gallows.

Just before he began the death march Reid responded to his family's farewell message with this missive:

"Dearest Mother and Sister:—be of good cheer always. I never felt better in my life. Love.—Clarence."

Emerson Norton, Former Kansas University Star, Is Leading In Decathlon

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—Emerson Norton, former Kansas university star, now representing Georgetown, went into the lead in the first five events of the decathlon competition which opened the annual Pennsylvania relay carnival today.

Norton came from behind after Sturtridge of Depauw had got a tie in the first event and won the second, taking an early lead. Norton, however, sacred heavily in the high jump, outclassing his field with a leap of six feet two inches, and also showed to advantage in the broad jump and shot put.

He was an odds-on favorite to win the event, in view of the fact that he finished second in the Olympic games, where Harold Osborne established the world's record in the matter of total points.

Norton's point total at the end of five events was figured at 3779.724. Anthony Plansky, a teammate, was second with 3725.596 and Sturtridge was third with 3606.114.

EXPLAIN INCREASED MAINTENANCE COST

Union High School District Trustees Give Facts and Figures to Offset Charges of Any Extravagance

Note—The newspaper referred to by the Glendale Union High school officials in the following communication to the citizens of the school district is NOT The Glendale Evening News. The newspaper referred to is the local insert of The Los Angeles Express.

To the citizens of the Glendale Union High school district—Our attention has been called to certain recent comments by one of our local newspapers upon the increased cost of "maintenance" of our high school for the school year 1923-24, as given in the annual report, county of Los Angeles, California, fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, published by the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county.

In this newspaper's comments, there seemed to be an implication that something connected with the financial situation was not right and that it would be well to investigate the reason for the increased costs. There's nothing would please the board better than to have the fullest investigation. Annual and current detailed accounts of all income and all expenditures of this high school district are always on file in the office of the high school. This record is available and open to all patrons of the district and anyone wishing to investigate can quickly satisfy himself in all these matters.

To aid in the better understanding of the local financial situation, we are presenting a brief description of the present conditions. To do this more clearly, it will be best to speak of the sources of income for the district, and also the development of the present building program at the Broadway High school.

Source of Money

The district receives its money, other than from bond issues, from three sources: the state, the county, and the district. The money received from the state and county is from general funds which are separately apportioned as state and county funds to the respective districts on the basis of their annual average attendance. The amount received from district tax varies from year to year.

Each July the Boards of Trustees in the various districts of the state prepare their budget of expenses for the school year ending June 30 of the following year. This budget, when approved by

HOPE IS HELD FOR MINERS TRAPPED

Fourteen Men Imprisoned 2000 Feet In Shaft By Smoke, Flames

BULLETIN

BURKE Idaho, April 24.—Renewed hope to rescue crews who are toiling to reach fourteen miners trapped by fire 2000 feet down in the big Hecla silver-lead mine here when the blaze died down and lower levels were clearing of smoke shortly before noon today.

BURKE, Idaho, April 24.—Fourteen miners are trapped down 2,000 feet in the Hecla mine here by fire which broke out suddenly late last night and hope of rescuing them depends on whether rescue crews can reach them before smoke clouds envelop the men.

Rescuers had penetrated to the 1,600 foot level early today in an endeavor to reach the men who are 3,000 feet back from the shaft.

Thirty-three men were in the mine when the fire broke out. Nineteen escaped before smoke and fire closed the shaft.

Rescue Chance Good

Early reports were that three dead bodies had been taken but this was denied later. Mine headquarters reported there is a good chance of saving the trapped miners.

The fire, believed caused by a short circuit in the electric wiring, broke out suddenly and only those near the shaft were able to escape. Smoke clouds poured through the level where the men were working, driving them back.

Late reports were that the fire was not burning steadily and that the men might be rescued if smoke clouds did not suffocate them.

The Hecla is one of the largest silver-lead producers in the Hunter section of the Coeur D'Alenes.

NEW ENGLAND IS SHAKEN BY QUAKE

Bay State Coast Region Is Shaken By Rumbles For 10 Seconds

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 24.—Southern New England was shaken by an earthquake today. The whole southern section was rocked, but no injuries or serious damage was reported.

The shock was felt shortly after 3 o'clock this morning. It was of ten seconds' duration. It recalled the earth disturbances in New England on January 7 and February 28.

Today's disturbance, which shook buildings, rattled windows and caused widespread alarm was confined to the strip of the Bay State bordering along Buzzard's bay and extending on to the island of Rhode Island, on which the city of Newport is located.

Trend of Shock

The shock extended northward from the shore line to the towns of Rochester and Freetown, but was not felt in the city of Fall River.

In Freetown, a telephone operator was aroused by a ringing of bells caused by wires being disturbed by the quake. Police were swamped with calls. Sleepers had been awakened by the shock.

As the earth shock rocked this city, police thought a big caravan of motor trucks was passing, they said. Along the coast line houses were rocked and dishes crashed to the floor.

CONVICTION IS URGED FOR WHEELER

Counsel Closing Arguments In Oil Bribery Trial Of Montana Senator

BULLETIN

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 24.—In a savage attack upon John L. Slattery, United States district-attorney, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, chief counsel for his colleague, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, being tried in federal court here for misuse of office, closed the defense argument this afternoon.

Walsh accused Slattery of being "unfair and misstating facts," and declared the government's case had been builded on "perjured testimony."

By KENNETH CLARK
For International News Service.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 24.—Trial of Senator Wheeler of Montana for alleged misuse of office, entered its final stages in federal court here today with closing arguments by opposing counsel. The jury was expected to get the case before nightfall.

Picturing Wheeler as a betrayer of his public trust, John L. Slattery, United States district attorney, closed the case for the government with an appeal for a verdict of guilty.

"The eyes of the nation are on you today," Slattery told the jury, "wondering whether you have the courage to do your duty by convicting Wheeler."

"Don't let the fact that Wheeler is a senator influence you," Slattery declared. "In this land of ours there is no place for lawbreakers or tyrants. No man must be above the law.

Another Indictment

"The government has proved to you everything of which Wheeler is charged.

"Campbell employed Wheeler because Wheeler had been elected to the United States Senate and by his influence could help with oil land matters in Washington."

Wheeler is accused of illegally receiving after election to the Senate a $4000 fee from Gordon Campbell, Montana prospector, to handle government oil permits before the interior department.

After this trial Wheeler faces a second indictment in Washington, charging him with conspiracy to obtain Montana oil and gas lands from the government.

FIRING SQUAD NOW 'KING' IN SOFIA

Boris Virtual Prisoner As Retribution Is Taken For Bomb Outrages

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, April 24.—Volleys of the firing squad were heard all day long near the barracks where military courts at Sofia are trying Communists accused of implication in the cathedral bomb outrage that cost one hundred and sixty lives and in the plot to overthrow the Bulgarian government, a dispatch from Vienna today related.

King Boris is a virtual prisoner in the national palace, reports from several capitals said.

An American general is wanted to command the Bulgarian army during the crisis, Josiah Wainwood, labor member of the British parliament, said, in describing conditions as he saw them in Bulgaria. Military authorities were opposed, he said, to this suggestion of the populace.

New Assassinations

Two new assassinations were reported. One was said to be that of the bomb conspirator Outloff, and the other an agent of Minkoff, the reputed arch conspirator who plotted the bomb outrage.

Whole villages in Bulgaria were under military control with the residents virtually prisoners while officers were tracing the political histories to determine who are Communists, fragmentary dispatches from the Bulgarian border read.

The arrest of King Boris was said to have followed his having commissioned the democratic leader, Malinoff, to sound the peasants' league to see if it would join a coalition government.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The record-breaking heat wave today continued to blanket the eastern half of the country, with little relief promised by the United States weather bureau.

A literal parade of thunder showers through the local lake regions, the Ohio valley and portions of the north Atlantic states may bring cooler weather to those sections tomorrow, but the remainder of the sweltering cities will continue to have "fair weather" for the next thirty-six hours.

The weather bureau reported Washington was the hottest city in the country in the present wave with a high temperature of 93. Chattanooga, Tenn., came second with 92.

FINN REFUSES TO CAPITALIZE FAME

Manager Denies Nurmi Asks Exorbitant Expenses For Appearances

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—That Paavo Nurmi, the great Finn runner, is taking the "easy money" connected with his appearance in amateur athletic events in preference to entering the ranks of the professionals, has hotly denied here today by his manager, Hugo Quist.

"If Nurmi wanted to capitalize his talent," said Quist, "he would have accepted one of the many offers made to him."

Charges Denied

Quist emphatically denied charges of Kenneth L. Wilson, director of athletics at Drake university, that Nurmi made exorbitant expense money demands for an appearance at the Drake relay carnival.

"The entire controversy," said Quist, "grew out of Drake's failure to have Nurmi's Los Angeles date changed to permit him to run at the relay races in Des Moines tomorrow."

GRAND KNIGHT HONORED BY VISITORS

Eighteenth District Lodges Meet With Local K. C. Council Last Night

Fred H. Huesman, grand knight of Glendale council, No. 1920, Knights of Columbus, was honored last night by the eighteenth district, composed of Hollywood, Junipero Serra and Glendale chapters, by the holding of a combined meeting in the local council chambers, 330 East Lomita avenue. It is said the honor paid by the 600 assembled knights comes through recognition of Glendale as "the live wire council of the state."

Mr. Huesman was presiding officer, greeting guests and visitors. Responses were heard from Grand Knight Purcell of Junipero Serra council, and Grand Knight Tom Howard of Hollywood council. Both paid tribute to Mr. Huesman and the progressive spirit of Glendale knights.

Program Presented

Thomas A. Murphy, lecturer of Glendale council, was master of ceremonies, with Sid Dolbrook, lecturer of Hollywood council, veteran stage and screen actor, in charge of stunts. Entertainment features were violin and piano numbers by Stanzel and Jansky; stories and reading of Kipling's "A Fool There Was" by Frank Newberg; monologues, Joe McCue; clever scene by two members of Hollywood council; blue songs by Glendale council's singers, Messrs. Brehme, Ed O'Leary and R. Thielen; stories, songs and dance by Monte Collins, 71-years-old stage favorite. Commodore Barry of the fourth degree, was present for a few moments, leaving to fill another engagement.

Frank Jenal of Los Angeles, was the speaker of the evening. He gave an eloquent address on Columbianism and its relation to church and state. Throughout his talk he emphasized loyal American citizenship. Lunch was served at a late hour by Tom Smith.

CABIN SITE TRACT OPENS TOMORROW

Live Oak Springs Division Owner Plans Barbecue Lunch To Visitors

A free barbecue dinner, music, dancing and two lots free to the lucky ones, will feature the opening of Live Oak Springs Cabin Sites subdivision, eight miles north of Saugus, tomorrow.

The subdivision, only thirty-seven miles from Los Angeles, or a drive of an hour and a quarter, has been called the choicest cabin sites property to be found anywhere by H. A. Hucke.

All lots are good-sized and well laid out, the rolling portion of the tract having the roads follow the contour of the land. Fifteen hundred live oak trees are on the property. Water is already piped and available for use immediately. There are numerous natural flowing springs on the land.

Adjoins Forest

The subdivision adjoins two and a quarter million acres of national forest reserve land, on which hunting, in season, is permitted, where game abounds. Available places for picnicking and outings, rapidly diminishing in number where the country is being built up, are also numerous near Live Oak Springs.

Persons wishing to make the trip to the new tract to enjoy the free barbecue dinner and other merrymaking scheduled for Sunday should go to Saugus and follow the arrows eight miles to the subdivision, Mr. Hucke said.

Frank Weller Presents Gift On Behalf of Assembly; Water Bill Dead

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
Special to the Evening News.

SACRAMENTO, April 24.—Assemblyman Frank Weller of Glendale had the pleasure of presenting Speaker and Mrs. Frank Merriam of Long Beach with a chest of silver in behalf of the Assembly and felicited the presiding officer on his fairness and humor. Other officials and attaches were honored by tokens of esteem, featured by Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young singing Swan Song to Senate, declaring he would not return to the Legislature.

Assemblyman Weller's Sonoma farm bills were passed by the Senate and go to governor, asking $150,000 for re-establishment institution for delinquent women sought by Federated clubs. The governor's veto is likely.

Reconsideration of metropolitan water district bill was denied by the Assembly because of the power interests' opposition to this being used as propaganda for high Boulder canyon dam.

EXPECT REPORTS ON BRIDGE AT ATWATER

Committee Making Investigation and Question of Bond Issue Will Be Determined by Council Soon

Whether $1,200,000 will be provided for new bridges at Glendale boulevard and Fletcher drive in the proposed bridge bond issue, scheduled to go on the June municipal ballot, will not be finally determined before May 1, City Clerk Robert Dominguez said yesterday, as the bond issue will probably not be decided by the City Council before that time.

The city clerk gave out the information on the bridge question, he said, because it was apparently understood that action was to have been taken this week. The bond issue, calling for $5,000,000 for new bridges in the city of Los Angeles, has been submitted to a committee for investigation. This committee will not be ready to report before May 1, and no action can be expected from the City Council until that time, Mr. Dominguez said.

Glendale Boulevard Tunnel

The proposed pedestrian tunnel at Glendale boulevard and Atwater avenue was included in a list of sixty-two tunnels recommended in a letter from the Board of Education to the City Council yesterday. The letter from the school board explains that the tunnels proposed in the list are being urged because of their particularly urgent need in the sections where they are to be located. The list was prepared, the letter states, on the strength of data and recommendations from school principals and superintendents and with the assistance and advice of the safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The recommendation of Miss Rosalin Gates, principal of the Atwater school, was one of the first received by the Board of Education.

Reorganize Scout Troop

Reorganization of the Atwater Boy Scout troop will take place next week, under the auspices of a special Boy Scout committee, headed by Georga Mumaugh, chairman. Mr. Mumaugh announced that a scoutmaster to take charge of the troop is being sought, and that anyone with sufficient time to manage the boys' work should apply either to him or to Rev. J. W. Utter at the Neighborhood Christian church. The Scouts meet once weekly at the Christian church. It is the plan to enlist all the boys in the district in the ranks of the organization and to build them a clubhouse of their own in the near future.

Lipscomb, who presided at the meeting.

With the endorsement of the Los Angeles county district council of carpenters, the Los Angeles county building trades council, and various non-political civic improvement associations, Edgar E. Lampton, council candidate from the First district, announced yesterday that his campaign committee is highly enthusiastic.

The candidate has spoken several times lately on the needs of school tunnels, of which he expects to make an issue if elected. Lampton-for-Council clubs have been formed by Mrs. V. E. Bacon, president of the Atwater Parent-Teacher association, and Mrs. A. P. Muzee of 4137 Edenhurst avenue.

WISE MEN'S WORDS—

Do not have to be long to be wise.
Are always willing to wait the judgment of the years.
Are often worth more than other men's fortunes.
Never need profanity to give them force.
Soon become the nation's greatest heritage.
Will save a foolish man much heartbreak.
Seldom have much market value unless he's an alienist.

WHERE IS SUCCESS?

One of the greatest fallacies entertained by humankind is the belief that success awaits us in some other field rather than where we happen to be; that we are handicapped by conditions and environment, but in another city, another state or perhaps just around the corner we could make a success of life.

In the first place, success is determined by the mental attitude; it knows no geographical boundary lines. As Emerson said, "Good luck is another name for tenacity of purpose." A man succeeds or fails according to his own worth and ability, no matter where he may be.

While you are sure you could make good in some other position, someone else is thinking they could be successful in yours. Far lands are beckoning you while others are yearning to be where you are.

The story is told of a man who wished to find a diamond mine. So he sold his land, equipped himself for a journey and traveled far in search of the sparkling jewels. He wasted his years in vain effort, while the man who had purchased his land discovered a rich vein of the precious stones while plowing one day.

According to the department of commerce, hundreds of Americans have lost large sums of money in South American land schemes. Some of the schemes are wholly fraudulent, most of the land is far from railroads or markets and some of it is desert. There are millions of good acres in the United States open to colonization, irrigated desert lands, cutover timberland, open prairie land where a small sum will purchase a homestead and where there is every prospect of success within reach of civilization, the church, the school, the market and the homesteader's own kind of people. But the lure of distance and the unknown is so great that American farmers have risked and lost their entire fortunes to those who play upon this trait of human nature.

Distance always lends enchantment, but when you go to that far place where you think success awaits you, you find your progress impeded by the same limitations that held you back before, and, as in the case of these farmers, by natural causes also. Success and failure are attributes of people, not of places.

COMPELLING DISARMAMENT

It has been suggested that a debt-collecting expedition to Europe on the part of the United States would help to compel disarmament in Europe as well as reduce taxes at home.

France has no interest whatever in the disarmament conference proposed by President Coolidge, and she has $4,000,000,000 of America's money with which to equip an army and build airplanes. Some have urged that it would be in the interest of world peace for the United States to cancel France's war debt, but isn't there considerable argument on the side of collecting the debt and thus compelling a limitation of armaments on the part of France—to which she will not agree, under present conditions—and so lead to peace?

France is in constant fear of Germany, perhaps with good reason. She can see only two alternatives—a Germany kept prostrate and unable to make war and a Germany held at bay by the bayonets of the world.

But neither of these conditions is to be expected. France cannot keep Germany under her heel nor can she expect England, America and Italy to come again to her aid.

The fact that France wants to keep Germany in repression is the thing most calculated to create a state of mind in Germany that will lead to war against France.

National relationships are changing continually. Germany may soon make new and powerful friends that would help to make war on France. The time may come when France will wish she had been responsive to the movement to disarm the world.

If France is not able to pay her debt, the United States should be lenient. If she needs the money for rehabilitation and for re-establishing normal economic conditions, the United States should be lenient. But if France cannot pay because she is spending money in preparation for another war, and at the same time declining invitations to attend a disarmament conference, America should demand payment of the debt to the last cent.

WEEK FOR BOYS

Next week, April 26 to May 2, is International Boys' week. We have days and weeks devoted to everything under the sun, from raisins and prunes to dumb animals, and it is fitting that we should set aside seven days to honor the citizens of tomorrow, those who will be in charge of the affairs of the nation in a few brief years.

There are a number of organizations in Glendale dedicated and devoted to boyhood the year round, the Scouts, the Y. M. C. A. and several church organizations. No work more worthwhile can be undertaken than the effort to direct the energies of youth toward fine manhood and splendid citizenship. It is not only a work for today, but one which concerns the future of the city and the nation. Let us pay homage to boyhood next week.

MIXED METAPHORS

Students of composition and young writers are warned against the use of mixed metaphors which creep insidiously into the work of the less experienced writer while even the famous author is not immune. Quite a variety of comparisons are made in this quotation from Harriet Beecher Stowe:

"When you get into a tight place and everything goes against you, till it seems as though you could not hold a minute longer, never give up then, for that is just the place and time that the tide will turn."

The three chief causes of social unrest are (1) envy, (2) envy, and (3) envy.

Some grow old gracefully, and some try to act young and grow old disgracefully.

The reason the horse never makes an ass of himself is because he sticks to plain water.

The spirit of unrest discourages house building. And, for that matter, housekeeping.

Below the Water Line

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There are some things that may be done and there are some things that have to be done.

The things that have to be done may be called those below the water line.

When a ship is struck below the water line it is more dangerous than when it is struck in the upper works; it is more in danger of sinking.

A man has to make a living, and his activities in that direction may be called below the water line. On the contrary, he may be interested in art and music, and the like, and these may be things above the water line.

That is, you can cut off a man's privileges of indulging in fine arts and he will still float, as it were, but you cannot cut off his ability to make a living without sinking him.

In like manner a woman must care for her husband, look after the children and the house, and so forth. In what activities she engages in other directions, such as clubs, amusements and similar engagements, are above the water line. They can be stopped without danger to the individual.

They are what Maeterlink calls the lower engagements. This applies to all our work for a living. The upper engagements are those that we do with our leisure or spare time.

Most cultural development is development above the water line.

Many people become interested in art and music merely as a fad, or something with which to occupy their leisure time. These things can be left unattended to and the man will still float.

This has its bearing upon a country. When a country is poor, art has a tendency to leave it. Indeed, art follows riches, and the United States, on account of its great possessions, has become the art center of the world. It is drawing rapidly from impoverished Europe. Venice at one time was the center of art, but that was also when it was the center of wealth.

It is necessary, therefore, that a country should have something else besides leisure. It must have sufficient resources below the water line to carry its leisure. If it has nothing else but time to enjoy itself, very often its scramble to make a living and keep alive cuts off its ability to enjoy the higher things.

Horoscope

Although many good signs mark this day, astrologers read it as rather uncertain. Venus and the Sun are in benefic aspect early in the morning; Saturn and Neptune are adverse later, Jupiter and Uranus are in kindly sway in the afternoon.

This is a planetary government, under which each hour brings new influences and for that reason it will be easy to become puzzled and confused in business transactions.

Women of large ambitions should benefit if they emulate the bird of ancient adage. They should push business matters the first thing this morning.

Love affairs in which girls and elderly suitors are involved should be most fortunate today, which is lucky for weddings, making for wealth and prosperity, long life and perpetual blindness to one another's faults.

There is an aspect again warning that labor will be severely critical of motives in large enterprises, owing to the evil power of Neptune which inclines toward misunderstanding and suspicion.

Many passing illnesses due to weather changes may be prevalent late in the spring this year. The digestion may be easily affected.

Venus is in an aspect with Uranus that foreshadows many deaths among famous women.

Musicians and painters should take great care of their mental as well as physical well-being. There is an aspect indicating a tendency toward extremes of emotion and opinion, genius being very near to insanity.

Neptune is in a place showing great uncertainty in political matters. All parties will be affected, those most sure being imperilled by intrigue, the seers warn.

Fires and street accidents will be numerous in all parts of the country all through the summer, it is prognosticated.

International difficulties in which England is concerned appear to be forecast for the summer.

King George and Queen Mary are to experience family anxieties that may affect the health.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year that is generally fortunate, for business will prosper and all love interests will be happy ones. The young will court and marry.

Children born on this day probably will have happy, fortunate, prosperous lives. These subjects of Taurus are likely to be most companionable and very fond of pleasure, but able to make the most of all financial opportunities.

Today's Poem

THE ARROW AND THE SONG

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow in its flight.

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong,
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterward, in an oak,
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.

—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

This is the time of the year to get out your copy of Bryant or Best Poems, and read "Thanatopsis":

To him who in the love of Nature holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness, and a smile
And eloquence of beauty, and she glides
Into his darker musings, with a mild
And healing sympathy, that steals away
Their sharpness, ere he is aware

And to the end of its eighty-seven lines.

This also is the proper time of the year for Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn to be voicing the need of a return to the immediate contact with Nature which men had in Cro-Magnon days.

"The cave boy certainly had advantages which our boys have ceased to enjoy. He was surrounded on all sides by vibrant nature, full of inspiring and wonderful phenomena, which filled him with reverence and awe, if not with superstition. "On restoration of the privileges enjoyed by the cave boy and on coming for the first time into direct vision of the wonders and beauties of nature, not only boys and girls but men and women, young and old, feel a thrill which they may never have experienced before."

CLARK KINNAIRD

But perhaps Professor Osborn errs; man is as close to nature as ever.

In the words of Goethe: "Nature! We are surrounded by her and locked in her clasp: Powerless to leave her, and powerless to come closer to her. Unasked and unwarned she takes us up into the whirl of her dance, and hurries on with us till we are weary and fall from her arms."

Nature is embodied in electricity, the radio, the automobile and the thousand and one other conquests and harnessings of nature's ether, vibrations, pulses and manifestations, in which the modern man is making himself increasing expert, just as much as in trees and rivers and beasts.

We do stand much less close to the nature of the cave man. But would he have preferred his mode of contact to ours? He hunted, fished, ran, jumped and climbed strictly in order to exist.

In those days nature meant a constant struggle for food, cold and heat, unchecked floods, avalanches and plagues, sabre-toothed tigers and other visitors unpleasant to encounter in the course of a stroll. And, on the other hand, it meant the forests and the mountains and the skies unobscured as the constant background for work and play.

Timely Views

Farmers should consider the possibilities of electric power on the farms, power supply companies should see that the farm market is supplied, machinery manufacturers should meet farm requirements and the states should take advantage of their vast water power resources for the economic benefit of all, Owen D. Young, formerly director general of the Reparations Board, and chairman of the board of the General Electric Company, declared in an address recently.

Speaking before a conference of representatives of farmers' organizations and electric companies, Mr. Young stressed the need of electric power and machinery on farms and outlined the possibilities of creating and meeting the demands of such a market.

Explaining that electricity would lighten farm labors and increase farm profits by lowering production costs, Mr. Young said that the farmer should be open-minded as to new methods and should cooperate with his neighbors that all might benefit by electric service. He suggested that the power company would find an extensive market in the farms and while it might be under added obligation in extending the lines, there would be found in the farm service the means of diversifying the power load.

Manufacturers were urged to study the application of machinery to farm uses, a neglected field but one that would be profitable once power lines opened the source of supply.

Outlining the part the states should play in the scheme, Mr. Young declared that the development of water power should cease to be a political football and that economic progress should be substituted for political horseplay in utilizing natural resources.

"Millions of horsepower runs to waste every year. This waste takes place not because the electrical art and industry cannot harness these great powers; not because they are too timid to try. The record is that they have sought and are seeking the opportunity to develop these powers, but as yet no adequate permits have been given."

Who's Who

The recent action of Senator Stanfield of Oregon in presenting to President Coolidge the recommendation that Judge Wallace McCamant of Portland, Ore., be made federal judge in the ninth district, recalls the fact that Judge McCamant played a leading part in the election of Coolidge to the vice presidency.

It was McCamant who upset plans of the leaders at the Republican national convention in Chicago five years ago by swinging Coolidge into the limelight as vice-presidential timber.

The judge has played a leading part in Republican politics in his state and the west for many years. He was a delegate to the Republican state conventions as far back as 1892. In 1896 he was named delegate to the national convention. He served again in 1900 and then in 1920.

He has served as master in chancery in the United States court for the district of Oregon and as justice of the state supreme court.

He was born in Hollidaysburg, Pa., September 22, 1867.

'Victim' Tells of Receiving Mysterious Messages Without 'Set'

By ROBERT MACK
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The qualifications for the position of chief radio supervisor may eventually include a complete knowledge of psychiatry as well as a thorough familiarity with wave lengths and the odds and ends of radio science.

Ever since radio broadcasting became a national institution, letters complaining of mysterious messages, tuned in without the aid of a receiving set and usually of a terrifying nature, have found their way into the files of the department. Most of them have remained there.

Last Tuesday one of the "victims" of the mystic messages made a 200-mile trip to Washington to discuss his wireless persecution with Chief Radio Supervisor W. D. Terrell. According to Mr. Terrell, his visitor was the first of the alleged receivers of the untraceable communications who has taken the matter up in person with the department.

Although busy with a mass of papers, piled up on his desk during his absence last week, Supervisor Terrell turned from his study of wave lengths and applications for licenses to discuss his visitor's case.

Except for the man's idea that he is being persecuted by some unknown sender of messages, his visitor appeared perfectly normal, Mr. Terrell said.

According to the story told to Mr. Terrell, his visitor complains that the messages have entirely wrecked his business and made his associates lose confidence in him.

"Every time I attempt to do anything I receive a message telling me just how to do it. Sometimes it proves wrong and again it turns out all right," the man explained to the supervisor. The messages, he said, are received in different languages.

Curiously enough, the "victim" of the messages does not own a radio receiving set

COMMERCIAL AIR PLANS ARE MADE

Chicago Takes Lead After Ford Freight Carrying Line Is Opened

By O. L. SCOTT
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

CHICAGO, April 24.—If paper plans for commercial aviation projects, which have been unraveling with startling rapidity of late, really turn out to be more than mere talk there will soon be need for first rate air traffic laws to guide the flying along sky highways above Chicago.

All sorts of plans, counter-plans and ideas reaching the announcement and conference stages, turned loose on the public here since the first flight of the American airways freight-carrying plane between Chicago and Detroit, suggest the need for the air police force already projected.

But as yet little real commercial flying has been done. Contemplation of what is going to be done shortly is taking up the spare time.

American Airways

The American Airways with its Detroit-Chicago service just opened the way. There now is the General Airways, planning a New York to Chicago air line for carrying both freight and passengers. The freight rate would be one mill per pound per mile. The passenger rate about double the railroad fare for the same distance.

After that project has come the Chicago-New Orleans air transportation company, announced as commencing July 4. Here also both passengers and freight would be carried, passengers for $50 to New Orleans, freight at the same charge as in the New York-Chicago route. A Chicago-New Orleans air mail route already has been tried out successfully.

These plans have the police department contemplating a separate flying arm to be attached to its force. The department is being told that flying policemen will be a great help in crime and general policing work, as well as in supervision of aerial traffic—a coming problem.

Chicago Takes Note

Their early need is further shown by the possibility of a large number of commercial routes for carrying air mail, under the law which permits the post office department to allow mail to be carried for shorter distances, off the transcontinental air mail feeder, to commercial shipments.

And Chicago is not considering all these air projects as ephemeral. Its business men are looking into the future and already have under way a comprehensive survey to reveal the amount of airplane business that airways systems may find here. The leading men of the city are behind this.

"Now that projects are definitely under way," said E. M. Laird of the Laird Airplane Co., "regulations for flying over cities, inspection of planes by federal inspectors and strict registration of pilots are necessary. When flying gets on a business basis so that people appreciate that it isn't an occupation for student aviators and dare devils, but is an ordinary safe, sane and practical means of travel, it should boom. Soon people will understand that it is safer to fly than to travel by automobile on Chicago's streets and on the country roads of today."

DELAY CAUSED BY NEW RATE ON MAIL

Many Persons Fail To Put On Sufficient Stamps, Postoffice Reports

General misunderstanding of the new postal rates on private mailing cards has delayed hundreds of messages sent by Glendale postoffice patrons since the inauguration of the new postal rates ten days ago, George Hallett, assistant postmaster, said today. Hundreds of persons continue to send picture postcards with but 1 cent postage attached. These cards, under the new postal rates, must contain 2 cents in postage, and for this reason are not being forwarded to their destination.

In almost all instances no return address is given on the postcards, so that it is necessary to hold them up until the person to whom they are sent are notified and forward the necessary extra cent postage, Mr. Hallett pointed out. Messages are thus delayed many days.

All postcards other than the stamped cards sold by the postoffice department require 2 cents in postage. This applies to all picture postcards.

Newspaper Rate

Confusion over the new rates on privately mailed newspapers has caused a bad tieup at the local postoffice also, Mr. Hallett said. The rate on newspapers sent through the mail by private parties other than the publishers of the papers has been increased considerably.

More than 1000 pieces of newspaper and magazine mail matter have been held up at the Glendale office until sufficient postage is furnished either by the sender or the addressee. Special cards warning persons mailing newspapers to bring their parcels either to the postoffice or to a sub-station and receive correct advice as to the amount of postage necessary have been placed at each mailbox.

Monteville Flowers Speaks On Question Before Kiwanis Club

A. L. Baird spoke on the zone meeting, April 27 at McKinley Home. President Fox reported on a meeting at Highland Park. Ole Andresen led the rehearsal for the Eisteddfod contest. Robert Adams outlined plans for a bowling tournament in which the Kiwanis club would participate.

Visiting Kiwanians present were: John W. Michley, San Fernando; H. J. Penfield, Lankershim; Newton Carn, Lankershim; C. W. Pearl, Eagle Rock, and H. B. Lynch, Tujunga. Mr. Carn spoke on plans for a Kiwanis history he is compiling.

WASH MACHINE IS GIVEN HARD TEST

Maytag Dealer Claims Dirt Can't Possibly Stay After Operation

A very interesting experiment has been discovered by H. J. Cox, manager of the Washing Machine department of the Glendale Hardware Co., 601 East Broadway. This experiment shows conclusively that the Maytag Electric Washing Machine for which the Glendale Hardware Co., are exclusive Glendale dealers will move the clothes which have been placed in the washing machine around and agitate them to such a great extent that dirt, grease or anything that might be in the clothes cannot stay long.

The experiment says Mr. Cox is a very simple thing yet is one which he feels sure no other washing machine on the market can duplicate. Mr. Cox takes three different articles of clothes and braids them and then thoroughly knots them so that it would take the ordinary person at least ten minutes to untie them and then puts them into the Maytag Washing Machine. In less than three minutes the Maytag will entirely unbraid and untie the knots, the clothes are so greatly agitated.

Mr. Cox is so sure that no other machine can do this feat that he states that he will make a present of a brand new Maytag to the person who can perform this identical experiment with any washing machine other than the Maytag.

The special offer of a beautiful Elk statue free with every Maytag sold for the past week has brought many responses, there are still a few more left says Mr. Cox and the offer will be continued until the supply has been exhausted.

Trip Reveals Romance Of Sea Life Aplenty

As we came aboard we received our first touch of oriental atmosphere in the jabbering and chattering motley that made up the Chinese crew. And this effect was augmented later with the appearance of the quiet, more refined Cantonese Chinese, set apart to serve as table and state-room stewards for the voyage.

Subsequent inquiry elicited the fact that the crew was made up of Ning Po Chinese running mostly to brawn and horsepower, whereas the characteristics of the old refinement and culture of China were evidenced in the Cantonese with their gentle manners and dog-like fidelity. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, let it be plainly borne in mind that Bret Harte's dictum still holds for China and Chinese in all its branches, viz: "For ways that are darksome, and tricks that are vain, the heathen Chinese is peculiar." Of which more anon.

Romantic Start

We had scarcely finished our somewhat hurried luncheon when the blast of the ship's whistle announced the withdrawal of the gangplank, and amid a bombardment of friendly good-byes and bon voyages, the two screaming, sputtering tugs alongside, began dragging and pushing us down the lane of warships lying at anchor in the inner harbor out toward the open sea.

And now the huge propellors begin their "chunking," the tug boats withdraw, a little later the pilot goes over the side and the "President Monroe"—being shorn of these landlubber accessories—orders full steam ahead, as she squares out "on her own" for her 25,000 mile jaunt, girdling the world.

All afternoon we steamed along under the headland of Palos Verdes, where the undaunted enterprise of California men is building a modern city to cost upwards of $35,000,000 and with school sites, parks, business districts and Manor House restrictions all specifically defined and prescribed ere yet a stake is driven or a line surveyed.

Nightfall found us passing slowly up the west coast with the lights of Venice and Santa Monica blinking at us from the shore.

Thrills Unending

The day following was a day of a thousand thrills, drifting northward along the ever shifting scenery of America's "gold coast." Here a long stretch of sandy beach shinng like a great band of amber in the sheen of the California sunlight; and now the shore line is broken into a great barricade of palisades that fling the breakers back hissing and grumbling. And once again we skirt the long arm of a mountain that reaches out insolently only to be swallowed up in the mystic depths of the Pacific and we round quietly into a sapphire bay girded with hills of emerald and gold and studded with white walled hamlets set off in red-tiled headgear, and ever and always the low verdure clad hills receding in the distance and the purple haze hanging like a fairy spell over all. Surely if there is a Riviera in America, the coastline of southern California must be it.

And then San Francisco! City of the good St. Francis. Many of my readers have visited and re-visited the city of the Golden Gate, but have you ever entered San Francisco from the sea? And at a time when the bright glow of the afternoon shades slowly into the twilight and the purple spell of the twilight blends into the sable mantle of night.

This was the fairy scene that greeted our eyes as we steamed proudly through the Golden Gate. Up over the crest of Nob Hill went the houses, the hotels, the apartment castles, and down its southern slope they came sprawling, halting only at the tide-line of the shore. As the sun like a ball of fire sank at the very portal of the Golden Gate the windows on shore caught up the reflection until the tout ensemble appeared as if mysterious hosts of sea and sky were engaging in a great sham-battle of color with shields, darts and spears of living flame.

Pursuit of Sun

But soon the battle dwindles, "The captains and the kings depart," and the gathering gloom of night envelops the whole. Through an occasional declivity in the hills one can see where the white lights of the city blazon the course of the various streets. Lights of green and yellow and blue twinkle at us from mast and hull of the multitudinous water-craft in the harbor and finally rising full-orbed out of the sea, the moon like a great white goddess, takes her course slowly up the heavens, lighting up harbor and headland with a sheen of burnished silver.

A quiet bump and a few hoarse commands to "make fast" and we go ashore for a three days' sojourn in the Golden City.

Saturday, March 14, amid a deluge of serpentine and with the strains of the San Francisco fire department band, informing us that the "Gang's All Here," the President Monroe puts his, her, or its nose out toward the sea and we are at last fairly launched on our long pursuit of the sun. We are now five days out from San Francisco and shall mail this from Honolulu where we arrive—God willing—next Saturday.

Just one word more—the lady from Amarillo, Texas, who sits opposite me at the table has volunteered the information (entirely unsolicited) that she paid fifty dollars for her "permanent wave" just before leaving Los Angeles.

I believe I am going to like it.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, April 24.—Through a franchise granted the Southern Counties Gas Co. by the Board of City Trustees the city of Burbank will receive about $1000 annually, beginning in 1931 from the company.

The county is ready to help improve San Fernando road its entire length through Burbank, and the money will be available July 1. This was the information conveyed by City Engineer Rose to the city trustees. Estimates are now being prepared.

The definite route which the proposed Riverside drive is to follow within the confines of this city, has now been determined, according to Engineer Rose. It will cross the Los Angeles river a few hundred feet from Buena Vista avenue, making a gradual curve southwest, and finally connecting with a Lankershim street.

A resolution has been addressed to the State Railroad commission by the executive committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce opposing the discontinuance of the Southern Pacific station at Chatsworth.

Nominations for president of the Burbank Rotary club include Ed Butterfield, Leonard Collins and Sandy Sandison.

CHEAP BEEF SCARCE

CHICAGO, April 24.—Packers say of their trade "there is a decided lack of cheap beef on the market. Heavier receipts of live animals eased the price somewhat non-commensurate with the volume of the increase. Pork trade is dull."

Studying geography and writing books about it was the hobby of the late Lord Curzon.

JUDGE SUED BY COUNTY

SANTA ANA, April 24.—The defense lost its first clash with the prosecution in the case of Orange county against Justice C. W. Warner of Huntington Beach when Justice K. E. Morrison ruled that the action must be tried in the Santa Ana court. Justice Morrison refused to quash the complaint on motion of the defendant. The action involves a demand by the county for judgment totaling $180. It is claimed that Judge Warner collected $10 a month for eighteen months as an allowance for office rent which he was not paying.

ANTI-DRILLING ORDINANCE

SEAL BEACH, April 24.—An ordinance to prevent drilling of oil wells in all that portion of the city lying south of the state highway, was adopted by the trustees this week. The action followed petition by residents to prevent wells from encroaching on residence property.

URGE FULLERTON MAN

FULLERTON, April 24.—The candidacy of Mayor H. H. Crooke of this city for the position of state real estate commissioner is being advocated by the local realty board. Crooke is a former president of the Fullerton realty board.

PIONEERS TO PICNIC

SANTA MARIA, April 24.—Pioneers of Santa Maria valley are planning a picnic at the Alamo on May 1, and a dance in Princess hall until 9 o'clock. Only old-fashioned dances, including the square dance and Virginia reel, will be played by the fiddlers. After 9 o'clock the younger set will take charge of the dance floor.

BEACH IS CLOSED

SANTA BARBARA, April 24—Bathing restrictions have been placed upon the entire length of Santa Barbara's beach from the bathhouse to Booth's Point, and steps are being taken to prevent bathing and wading between these places until the new outfall sewer is finished in July. Unsanitary conditions prevailing because of the close proximity of the outfall sewer has made this action necessary.

SMALL GIRL IS HEROINE

VENTURA, April 24.—Despite the fact that she could not swim, Peggy, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McKinley, rescued her baby brother Douglas, aged 4, from the waters of a ditch near here.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, April 24.—The two outstanding features of the program at the La Crescenta Women's club were the announcement by the president, Mrs. Charles M. Turck, of the $2000 mortgage she had raised for the club on the vacant lot, and a talk on a recent trip through Iceland by Madame Bissell, who is at present the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bissell, of Hi-Up Ranch.

Mrs. A. B. Cochran, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting. In the treasurer's report, Mrs. J. T. Martin said $712 was raised by Mrs. Anna Aiken. This is a portion of the amount promised the club through Mrs. Aiken's efforts in her drive. At present the club treasury has about $5000 to its credit. Mrs. Howard Reynolds gave a detailed account of the recent convention held in Santa Barbara, where she represented the local club as delegate. Mrs. Reynolds reported the club was on the first chart of those subscribing to the Redwood memorial.

In announcing construction work on the new club home had started, Mrs. Turck stated she had kept the lot and the building free from any mortgage as Henry Biescar, old resident of the valley, made the loan on the north half acre. Mrs. Turck stated the contractor, F. L. Howard, said he would have the house ready for use in fifty days.

Mrs. F. L. Sullivan, chairman of the ways and means committee, submitted the tentative program to be given on or about May 23 by Miss de Jarman on a percentage basis. Miss de Jarman has the honor of being the artist who opened the Biltmore series of musicales and is well known in musical circles. She will bring her own accompanist, Mrs. F. Crowell. After discussion it was unanimously decided to give the concert, and Mrs. Eliose Farner was apponted to take charge of piano and distribution of tickets for the concert.

Mrs. Conway, who is in charge of the menu for the coming barn dance, gave a short talk on her ideas of serving the supper. The supper will be served cafeteria style, each member to give 25 cents to the fund for supplies.

Madame Bissell gave a graphic description of Iceland. Lying only eight days from New York, Iceland, according to Madame Bissell, is a wonderful country. The speaker described the midnight sun as a ball of gold drifting in a lake of silver.

Tonight fathers will be entertained at the yearly party at the La Crescenta schoolhouse. The program will start at 8 o'clock. Mrs. C. W. Angier, president of the La Crescenta Parent-Teacher association, and Mrs. C. J. Rienhard, of the Montrose Parent-Teacher association, have worked out a program with Mrs. R. Q. MacDonald in charge. The Highway Highlands people will present a skit, "The Little Red Schoolhouse." The fathers of Montrose have their share of the program and will play, sing and give readings. Refreshments will be served.

LOS ANGELES

By Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—A legal bombshell backfired in Judge Hahn's court when two Mexicans brought from San Quentin prison by the prosecution to testify against Russell Van Bibber testified—one in favor of the defendant, and the other not at all. Van Bibber is being tried for the murder of Albert Rosenblum on November 26, and Norman Maness and Anthony Green were brought from the penitentiary to identify him. When they declined to do so the court adjourned one day.

Taft, president of the association, declared that every resident of the valley will be called upon to join in the plan to handle the problems contributing to the growth of the valley, such as rapid transit, flood control, sewer, highways, parks and playgrounds.

China is taking to the kitchenette. The Chamber of Commerce foreign trade department has received word that an increasing interest is being shown in Shanghai on the subject of apartments, apartment hotels and typical kitchen layouts.

An alumni organization of the Hammer and Coffin society, chapters of which publish the comic publications of a number of universities, including those of Stanford, University of California and a Chicago university, will be perfected among graduate members of those schools living in Southern California.

Plans for the municipal belt line railroad to be extended to serve the outer harbor have been approved by the harbor board. The improvement will take from one to two years to complete.

NEW PIPE LINE

SHREVEPORT, April 24.—The Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana is expected to start shortly construction of a 100-mile, ten-inch pipe line from the Smackover field to a point as yet unselected on the Mississippi river, to relieve congestion from flush Smackover production. The line will cost about $1,500,000 and will have a daily capacity of 15,000 to 20,000 barrels.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

The ebbing hours of the Legislature at Sacramento, where the writer has stood faithfully by in pursuit of news, are not unlike a death watch. It may be tonight, tomorrow or early Sunday morning when the files will be cleared and history will have been made by the 120 solons.

Then the grand trek begins for the congregated lawmakers. All of them have their automobiles, it seems, and like the nomadic tribes of the desert, they fold their tents and during the night silently steal away, leaving the hotel lobbies barren of the gossipy, self-important crowd. Really, one wonders how Sacramento gets along without the Legislature. And again, one wonders how it gets along with it.

As to getting along without it, the great tourist season is about to open and the Lake Tahoe resorts, the prehistoric cities of Nevada, and transcontinental travel all bring its ebb and flow of humanity through the capital city of the northern central section.

Would that Glendale had the scenic beauties of a city like Sacramento, particularly its trees and parks. Of course, Glendale has many advantages and a climate which is not so changeable as that evidenced the last month in the state capital.

And Glendale is doing more building, but it needs look to its laurels. Sacramento now boasts more than 100,000 population and is going strong.

Glendale has been well advertised in the Legislature by its capable assemblyman, Frank C. Weller and his charming wife, Dorothy Lee Weller. As chairman of the judiciary committee and one of the strongest administration members of the lower house he has been instrumental in guiding through many good measures.

One of immediate interest to Glendale is the act enabling the county Board of Supervisors to call an additional $10,000,000 bond issue, which if passed would provide funds for building a Big Tujunga dam and doing other flood control work not specified in the issue voted upon a year ago.

Also, he sponsored the strengthening of the Blue Sky laws for Corporation Commissioner E. M. Daugherty which will have a salutary effect when wildcat promotions are started. Attorney Weller also fathered the women's measure asking for the re-establishment of the Sonoma Farm home; he was interested in the adoption of the Child Labor Amendment, Veteran Welfare legislation, and many other measures.

Mrs. Weller accompanied her husband on trips to both Folsom and San Quentin prisons, which she described for readers of The Glendale Evening News, and she was one of the social favorites during the session. It is pleasing to know that such capable young people come from Glendale and reflect to the credit of the electorate in its selection of a representative.

SPAGHETTI SHOP OFFERS DANCING

Popular Colorado Street Eating Place Answers Public Demand

Improper dancing is passing away, as observed in many quarters where dancing and dining is in vogue. A survey of the more prominent cafes where dancing prevails, shows that both public and proprietors object to improper dancing. In fact, many of the finer orchestras with their rhythm and subtleness bring out the aesthetic, lending real charm to the dance.

Properly conducted, dancing with dining gives pleasure to all. These observations are voiced by Cane, Jr., manager of Cane's Spaghetti Station No. 1, 1524 East Colorado street, Glendale.

In answer to public demand, a splendid dance floor has been added to this unique Italian eating place, with lighting effects and decorations for atmosphere, yet retaining its refinement and features which have attributed much to its success.

Cane's Orchestra

Music will be furnished by Cane's Glendale Four, an orchestra whose members were chosen from the best musicians obtainable, offering the finest modern dance numbers, played as they should be played. This orchestra formerly played at the Egyptian Village and are well known and liked.

Dancing will begin tomorrow night, continuing from 8 to 12 o'clock every Saturday night thereafter.

"As long as the management remains with me," concluded Cane, Jr., "there will be no cover charge at anytime during dances. Our patrons will get their full money's worth of good, real Italian food and pleasure.

BOARD EXPLAINS INCREASED COST

Union High School District Trustees Give Facts On Annual Budget

the Board of Trustees, is presented to the county superintendent of schools for his approval. Being approved by him, it goes to the county Board of Supervisors, who, upon their approval, include it in the tax levy of that year. The amount included in the budget to be raised as district tax from the tax levy upon the assessed valuation of the district varies from year to year, according to the needs of the district for that year.

Items of Expense

In making this annual budget there are subdivisons of the items of expense. The three most important items are:

First—Salaries of teachers, clerical force, and janitors.

Second—Maintenance, properly speaking, as included in costs of fuel, electricity and general supplies.

Third—Capital outlay which includes expense of school desks, other furniture, and equipment, and permanent improvements.

Where reference is made later to maintenance in the annual report of the supervisors, it must be held in mind that subdivisions 1, 2, and 3, salaries, maintenance proper and capital outlay, respectively, are all included therein under the one term "maintenance."

To properly understand the budget for 1923-24, it will be necessary to review the building program for the Broadway High school. Early in 1922, the maximum bonding capacity remaining for the Union High school district, after securing a new site, was $616,737. Upon this amount bonds for $600,000 were voted. The trustees then instructed the architects to prepare plans for a complete plant to accommodate at least 2500 students. The architects prepared provisional plans and informed the board that the complete plant, as requested by them, could not be built for the amount of bonds already voted.

New Bond Election

By this time, September, 1922, the new assessed valuation of the district was available, and the trustees, as instructed by a mass meeting held August 10, 1922, called a new bond election to secure the necessary funds to build the complete plant as outlined by the architects. The board which took this action was composed of Thos. D. Watson, president, now "commentator" of the Glendale Press, Mrs. Blanche A. Gardiner, Dr. Harry V. Brown, H. W. Yarick and Dan Campbell.

This bond issue was lost. The trustees then instructed the architects to prepare plans for a plant for at least 2000 students, making it complete as far as built, but to omit certain buildings. Contracts for this group of buildings were signed by the board with the personnel as given above. It is worthy of note that the board rightly desired this group of buildings to be as large as possible, so accepted the architects' plan that practically used the whole issue in the construction of the buildings and left the furnishings to be provided by taking those in use in the Harvard street buildings and from the "capital outlay" in the year's budget.

Enrollment Gains

Before the time arrived for the preparation of the bulget for the following year, it was found that the school enrollment was increasing so rapidly that the Harvard plant must be used to such a full extent that practically no classroom furnishings could be spared for the new plant. This, then, meant that the new plant must remain unused on account of lack of furnishings, or that the capital outlay item in the annual budget must be so increased that it would afford funds for the needed furniture and other equipment for the Broadway High school. Naturally the latter plan was followed, for a great plant could not be left unused if there were any practical means of making it available to relieve the half-day sessions at Harvard High school.

This action to secure funds for furnishings and improvements, as will be shown later, was the cause of the increased "cost of maintenance" to which the newspaper comment referred with the suggestion that it should be investigated as an evidence of "rising extravagance."

The board at this time consisted of H. W. Yarick, president; Dr. Harry V. Brown, Albert D. Pearce, A. W. Tower and Thomas D. Watson.

Judgment Shown

It is a matter of interest to note that the editor of the paper which suggests extravagance and the advisability of investigation was president of the board when it signed the building contracts using practically all the available bond issue for constructing the buildings, thus leaving the furnishings to be provided for elsewhere, and again as a member of the board unanimously passing the budget which included the funds for furnishings, under the heading "capital outlay," a subdivision of maintenance, which increased the cost of maintenance and brought forth from this paper the suggestion of needed investigation.

The good business judgment of the board in all these matters has been fully shown. The strange thing is how newspaper comment and suggestion of the need of investigation should be proposed by one who was an active and presumably intelligent particiant in the matters brought under question.

A comparison of the statistics showing maintenance cost per pupil, as taken from the supervisors' "annual reports" showed Glendale to be consistently among the lowest of the twenty-six high school districts of Los Angeles county, as shown below:

Year	Lowest Mtnance. Per Pupil in County	Highest Mtnance. Per Pupil in County	G. U. H. S. Mtnance. Per Pupil
1921-22	$149.51	$343.92	$161.08
1922-23	158.83	387.88	176.24
1923-24	145.47	410.88	249.13
1923-24	Total maintenance less capital outlay		167.13

The statistics given above show that when the maintenance costs for 1923-24 are stripped of the unusual amounts devoted in this year to capital outlay, as previously explained, the maintenance cost as shown by our ledger is only $167.13, as compared with $176.-24 of the previous year. This shows that our real maintenance costs have run low and consistently. An examination of the expenditures of the present year to date and a careful estimate for the remainder of the year indicate that this year's maintenance cost, exclusive of captal outlay, will again be among the lowest in the county.

Annual Budget

We again call attention to the fact that in the annual budget prepared by us, then submitted by us to the county superintendent of schools, and by him to the county Board of Supervisors, the various items of expense are segregated into numerous headings, the principal ones being salaries, maintenance proper, and capital outlay but, that in the annual report published by the supervisors, the expenses are divided into only two divisions,

1: Teachers' salaries,

2: Other expense,

and these two are added to give their maintenance cost.

This total does not separate capital outlay, and consequently does not indicate clearly what is actually spent for the running expenses, and what for permanent furnishings and improvement. The expenses when segregated and properly classified, as in our budget, show our actual maintenance expenses are among the lowest of the county, and that the increase of last year is due solely to the emergency of our building program making necessary extraordinary capital outlay to enable Broadway High school to function.

Respectfully submitted,
ALBERT D. PEARCE,
President.

We certify that the figures used in the foregoing are correct, copied from records.

LAWMAKERS FAST CLEARING FILES

Final Touches To Measures Features Last Stages Of 1925 Session

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
Special to the Evening News.

SACRAMENTO, April 24.—A host of appropriation bills are being given final approval, conferees are working out amendments satisfactory to the Senate and Assembly and the Legislature is fast clearing its files for adjournment.

There is little to be told at this late hour, all important issues having been settled insofar as the solons are concerned. Attention now turns to the Governor's office where many bills are bound to die by what is known as the "pocket veto."

If you have any measures in which you are particularly interested, write the Governor, if they are in his hands, and he will welcome your criticism or commendation. He wants to answer public demand, at the same time holding legislation to a minimum.

This session, like all others, has been featured by a surplus of enactments, a spendthrifty desire on the part of the pork barrel, logrolling, sectional partisans in both houses who under the bludgeon of political promises are forced to introduce unwise and unnecessary bills.

Final defeat of reapportionment in the Assembly leaves nothing for Los Angeles county to do but initiate a strictly constitutional redistricting measure and put it on the ballot at the general election in 1926. Not even a compromise was acceptable to some of the representatives from districts having lots of area and few votes. So it is that if representation of the people, instead of representation of sheep, cattle and rabbits, is to be maintained, Los Angeles will have to take the "bull by the horns" and show San Francisco and other less populous centers that their adamantine stand is not countenanced by the voting power of the people.

DOUGLAS M'LEAN ON COSMO SCREEN

'Never Say Die,' Comedy Drama, Features Bill At New Theatre

What is said to be the most original plot ever employed in a comedy is woven into Douglas MacLean's "Never Say Die," now showing at the Cosmo theatre.

The picture is a screen version of Willie Collier's great Broadway success which kept New York laughing for a year and then played in every principal city four seasons, with Nat Goodwin as the star.

The story tells of a young man of vast wealth with an erroneous idea he has not long to live. To prevent his fortune going to charity, he is induced by a young artist friend to marry a beautiful girl, so that she may inherit his wealth.

Divorce Satire

The girl has already engaged herself to the artist, who is counting on sharing his friend's wealth when the proper time comes. As was to be expected, the bride never becomes a widow, and the romance develops into an exciting conflict between love and duty.

A laughable satire on the divorce business figures in the plot with more hilarious situations when the unhappily married hero and his pretty victim try to conceal the fact that they are nearly crazy about each other.

In his endeavor to join the girl on a steamer about to sail the hero has an exciting chase. The finish is said to provide the heartiest laugh ever found in a comedy either on the stage or screen.

ANCIENT WORKER

At ninety years of age, W. Winterbourne of Isleworth, England, who still works at the forge with a sledge hammer, has been a member of the local Board of Guardians for twenty-seven years.

Silver King

Famous horse is star of "That Devil Quemado," playing today and tomorrow at GLENDALE THEATRE; vaudeville also is provided.

A new picture starring Fred Thompson is enough to draw crowds to any movie theatre, and the Glendale theatre is sure to have packed houses today and tomorrow when "That Devil Quemado" is shown.

The production is the first which this western star has made since he broke his leg doing a leap to the back of a wheel-horse on a hurtling stage some months ago and his return to the screen is welcomed by thousands of Thompson fans.

Silver King, his gorgeous horse, plays a prominent part in "That Devil Quemado." His role is said to be the most exciting ever played by this equine luminary. Gloria Hope plays the leading role. Del Andrews directed the production.

Fine Vaudeville Bill

Scintillating syncopating strains of southern songs and melodies will be the predominating feature of the vaudeville bill today and tomorrow, when R. P. Varnadore and his Kentucky Ramblers hold forth. Each member of this organization is an accomplished musician, and especially "Varnie," the leader, who, in addition to leading and playing the piano accompaniments, relinquished command long enough to give his interpretation of several popular numbers.

A rural comedy classic is offered by Bob and Peggy Valentine in their skit "On a Moonlight Night." In his offering of songs and wit Harry Garland nearly outdoes Al Jolson and Eddie Cantor in his true to life impersonations. The Three Saltos have an acrobatic act called "Monday Morning," and Miss Helen Staples, "The Prima Donna Petite," winds up the bill with her repertoire of classical selections and popular ballads.

GATEWAY SHOWS WESTERN DRAMA

Miss Chadwick Recognized As 'Beautiful Model' Seen In Cast

It takes a young army of detectives stationed at the gates of Hollywood studios to keep thousands of enthusiastic young girls out of pictures. But it took a detective to get Helene Chadwick into pictures.

The head of the Astra Co. needed a leading woman, for a western picture he was about to produce. He saw a painting of a beautiful girl in an advertisement.

"There's the girl," he exclaimed to an associate.

But the girl could not be found. The drawing had come from an advertising agency. And the advertising agency had obtained it from an artist who had drifted into its offices and out again without leaving an address. Two weeks went by and still there was no leading woman for the part in the coming picture. So a detective agency was entrusted with the task of finding the girl.

Model Found

It took two weeks. Then Miss Chadwick was found at her home "up state" at Chadwick, N. Y., on a brief vacation. Known to every artist of repute in and around New York she was then called "the most photographed girl in America." And the advertisement had been made by an unknown artist from a photograph he had borrowed from an artist friend. Hence, the difficulty of tracing the original.

But even with the search ended, the producer's difficulties were not. For Miss Chadwick had a fame, a reputation, an earning capacity, as a model that she was loathe to relinquish. It took the friendly offices of Harrison Fisher for whom Miss Chadwick was then posing, to bring her into the producer's office and to get her name on a contract.

At Gateway

She played the lead in her first picture "The Challenge," released through Pathe, and has been a featured player in every picture she had made in the five years since.

Miss Chadwick is now playing the leading feminine role in Harold Bell Wright's "The Re-Creation of Brian Kent," which will be seen at the Gateway theatre today and Saturday. Kenneth Harlan, Mary Carr, Zasu Pitts, Rosemary Theby, Ralph Lewis, T. Roy Barnes, are in the cast.

Girl twins, whose bodies are joined together, were born at Rotherham, York, England, recently.

ELKS, LIONS PLAN THEATRE PARTIES

Glendale Organizations to See Dobinson Players In Next Play

Two Glendale organizations, the Lions club and the Elks, will have special nights at the Glendale Playhouse next week, when "The Wonderful Thing," a New York success, will be the attraction. The Lions have definitely chosen next Tuesday night as their night and have reserved a block of seats. The Elks figuring on attending the early part of next week also, because many of their members will head for the trout streams just before the opening of the season on May first.

In making arrangements to come to see the Dobinson Players, the officers of both organizations expressed practically the same sentiments. They declare that Florence Dobinson and her Players are an asset which Glendale should appreciate fully, because they are advertising Glendale all over Southern California.

"We have visiting brothers in quite frequently from San Diego, Santa Barbara, Santa Maria, Riverside and other cities," said Secretary Jones of the Elks, "and it is remarkable how many of them have heard of the Dobinson Players and the class of attractions being offered at the Glendale Playhouse.

Fame Has Spread

"The fame of 'Manna' spread far and wide. I know of dozens of people that this play attracted. They feel that we have a very live and progressive city to be able to support such an institution as the players. It is up to us to support them."

Another reason advanced by the two organizations is that the players offer genuinely good entertainment. The assertion came from the officers that the quality of both play and performance is higher here than in Los Angeles, while the price is just one-third of what is asked for similar seats in that city.

"The Wonderful Thing" is expected to enhance the reputation of the playhouse and players. It goes on next Monday for a week. It is the story of a charming young girl who is married to the man she loves, only to find that her money and not herself is the attraction.

"Good Gracious Annabelle" goes on its mirthful way this week with Saturday matinee, and "The Wonderful Thing" opens Monday, April 27th, also for a week's run.

INSTALL PASTOR FOR GRAND VIEW

Impressive Services Held As Rev. George W. Thomas Assumes Charge

Impressive installation services were held at Grand View school last night, when Rev. George W. Thomas was formally installed as first pastor of the Grand View Community church. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of Glendale Presbyterian church, presided and conducted the service.

Dr. R. M. Donaldson of Beverly Hills preached a sermon on "Christ, the Builder." Dr. Donaldson is an old friend of Rev. Thomas, having examined him in theology in Montana and preaching his ordination sermon in 1912.

Rev. T. E. Stevenson of Burbank delivered the charge to the pastor. Rev. Edmonds delivered a spiritual charge to the people, laying emphasis on the divine nature and mission of the church and the responsibility of church people before God and man.

The junior choir rendered selections, and Mrs. Charles Morgan sang a solo, with Mrs. Stephen Zitlow as accompanist. Rev. Thomas received a beautiful bouquet of flowers, and at the close of the service, the congregation, led by the elders, went forward and pledged allegiance to the church and pastor.

Jinks Day Is Celebrated at Glendale High

Dressed in colonial costumes and as grande dames, as young dandies of the day of their grandfathers, as pirates and queens, as ragamuffins and stage beauties, students of the Glendale Union High school today celebrated "Jink's Day."

Costumes of every description, nationally and mode were worn today, said to be the finest Jinks Day display ever attempted. Names of the wearers of most elaborate and true-to-type costumes will be included in the school news section of The Glendale Evening News tomorrow.

Photographs of a large number of the costumes and their originators were taken today at the Roberts & Echols drug store, to be enlarged and painted as exhibits for future years.

FASHION CENTER TEN DOLLAR DAY

Saturday Is Last Chance To Take Advantage Of Excellent Offerings

Glendale women and girls responded in crowds to the sales event inaugurated yesterday at the Fashion Center, 202 South Brand boulevard, and to continue through Saturday, as advertised exclusively in The Glendale Evening News.

Michael McKinnon and Ross Dines, proprietors of this popular shopping place, express great gratification over the success of yesterday and today.

The sale was announced as "Ten Dollar Day," and offerings at this price of chic dresses and stylish coats, as well as millinery on sale, proved attractions to shoppers looking for something for the spring and summer wardrobe.

Although sales were big yesterday and today, attractive stock is in readiness for the final day tomorrow, when even larger crowds are anticipated at the store.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

"You must not let the sunlight shine directly in the baby's eyes," I said to a nurse girl whose baby charge was facing the sun and blinking painfully.

She looked at me stoically without answering.

"I say you must not let the sunlight shine directly in the baby's eyes. It will injure them."

"His mother, she tell me to take him out in the sun and air."

"He should have the air and the sunshine, but he should not have the sunlight shining in his eyes."

Still she did not seem to comprehend. Taking hold of her arm, I turned her around and rather peremptorily—I'm afraid—told her to look up at the sun. She began to blink and turned her head away. With a smile, "I understand," she said, as she turned the carriage around.

Canker Sores

"Dear Doctor: I have a small boy, aged three, who gets canker sores in his mouth about every two months or so. I think they are caused by his stomach because he comes down with a high fever and then the sores appear in his mouth. Can you tell me what to do for them?—Mrs. R."

Canker sores may accompany diseases with high fevers, or they may apparently appear without any associated disease. In either case, there is probably some poisonous condition that affects the ends of the nerves in the mucous membrane and the membrane erodes.

The thing to do, of course, is to have the child thoroughly examined and find out the reason for the poisoning and remove it.

For the local treatment, wash out the mouth gently with a swab dipped in a boracic acid solution—one teaspoonful to the pint of hot water, four or five times a day. Milk of magnesia is also good for a wash. When the mouth is very sore a child will refuse to eat solid food. Give him gruels—and he can take beaten ripe banana pulp. Put egg yolk in the gruel.

Is your boy getting his daily vitamins and mineral elements? Lack of them will undermine the mucous membranes, as well as all the tissues of the body. Are you feeding him according to the advice I am giving in the column? I think I had better review the foundation diet:

Best Foundation for Each Day for Each Child

Part 1. Protective Foods. 1½ pints of milk, at least. 1 full cupful of vegetables (especially the green leaf vegetables) part of them raw. 1 cupful of fruit, part fresh, if possible.

Part 2. Energy Foods. Whole grain cereals, including whole grain breads. Fats in the form of butter, cream, egg yolks and nuts.

Mrs. M.—Isn't there some child welfare organization in your city that you can consult in relation to the young boy who drinks so terribly?

Those who are furnishing him with intoxicants can be prosecuted both for violating the eighteenth amendment and for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

He doubtless needs institutional care. If there is no welfare organization, get in touch with your board of health or department of justice. Some one there should be able to give you some advice.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Some time ago one of our readers requested a recipe for a little Christmas cookie called "Cinnamon Stars." The following rules have been sent to me, for publication, from two housekeepers who happened to have this unusual recipe.

From "A Reader: In reply to Mrs. M.'s' request I take pleasure in sending you my recipe for Cinnamon Stars: Cream together one-half pound of butter and one-half pound of granulated sugar. Measure out one pound of flour and add it gradually to the mixing bowl, alternately with three whole, beaten eggs. A pinch of baking powder should be added to the flour. Season the mixture with one-fourth teaspoon of ground cinnamon, and, last, add one-half cup of ground walnut meats. (Mrs. M's recipe called for cocoanut, but that could be used in place of the nuts in this recipe if desired.) Toss the stiff batter out onto your bread board and roll it very thin. Then cut out, using a tin cutter in the shape of a star (or any other kind of cutter preferred. I cut mine in various shapes.) Place the cookies in a greased pan and bake about eight minutes in a hot oven. Be careful not to burn them."

W. K. Cinnamon Stars: Put three egg-whites into a mixing bowl with one-half pound of powdered sugar and beat for one-half hour. Now mix together one-half pound of almonds finely chopped, one ounce of ground cinnamon and the rind of one lemon and add this to the sugar-egg mixture. Sprinkle your pastry board with an equal amount of flour and granulated sugar, using perhaps one-half cup in all, and turn the contents of the mixing bowl upon this. Roll until you can cut stars out of the dough, then let these stars stand on the board over night before baking. In the morning lift them onto a buttered pan with a spatula or pancake turner and slip into a hot oven to bake perhaps eight minutes."

Answer to "Mother's request: Cook spinach and asparagus in as little water as possible, so as not to waste their essence by much draining. Your children should find these vegetables most beneficial. Here is the recipe you want: Spanish Rice: Cook six peeled, sliced onions and three seeded green sweet pappers, (cut in strips) in four tablespoons of either butter or olive oil till soft and yellow; add three cups of boiled brown rice and pat into a solid cake with a spatula. Sprinkle with finely-chopped mild American cheese, fold one half of cake over other half (like an omelet) and serve.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

BEAUTIFYING GLOVES

The busy woman will probably find over night treatments for her hands the simplest and easiest way of keeping them in good condition. For she need only choose the lotion she thinks best for bleaching or softening the skin, then massage it on after scrubbing the hands well, then draw on old loose gloves, and go to sleep while the treatment works miracles over night. Or, if she can't sleep with gloves on, she can wear them for several hours at a time while she does housework or during the evening while reading.

If the hands suffer from house or office work, they are probably dry, the skin is rough or wrinkled and of course the nails will look badly. The alternative to cosmetic gloves is to give half an hour or more each day to massage and manicure and other treatments. Even then, if the hands are very dry, they should be fairly soaked in oils for an hour or more, and that is what the cosmetic gloves treatment does without wasting time.

Take a pair of old leather gloves, turn partly inside out, all but the fingers, that is. Spread the lining liberally with cold cream, or whichever lotion you use. Then wash the hands thoroughly with hot water and soap, take off stains with lemon juice or pumice stone or both, clean under the nails, and rub the hands, particularly nails and fingers, with the cream. Slip on the gloves. The reason I told you to turn them partly inside out, was because the act of pulling them on would take most of the cream from the fingers, where you probably most want it. You must have plenty on the skin, for the gloves take it up.

Warmed cocoa butter is wonderful for feeding the skin when it is dry. I melt pieces of the butter in olive oil, about half as much oil as butter, to make a stiff paste that spreads better than the butter itself. If too stiff, warm it before massaging on the hands.

Mrs. M. A.—You did not state your height, but I should think that your weight of 103 pounds is very much below normal for a woman of 50. The deep lines that have appeared so suddenly in your neck could easily happen if you are too thin, and as soon as you build up and fill out these lines will disappeared. If you can take cod liver oil you can build up very quickly, and if you cannot do this, try taking a quart or more of milk each day. Massage your face and throat daily using a good building cream, and several times a week use an astringent.

Aesembly Passes Bill For Narcotic Hospital

SACRAMENTO, April 24.—The Assembly today passed without opposition the Crowley bill, appropriating $200,000 for the construction of a state hospital for the care and rehabilitation of narcotic drug addicts.

As amended the bill provides that the narcotic hospital shall be constructed on the property of one of the established state institutions, rather than on a separate site. In its original form the measure called for two institutions one in Southern California and the other in the northern section of the state.

The measure now goes to the governor for signature, having previously been passed by the Senate.

State and municipal borrowing this year is proceeding at the rate of $200,000,000 quarterly in the United States.

FORMER COUNCIL THANKS HELPERS

Outgoing Officials Express Appreciation For Aid Of Organizations

Expressing appreciation of the outgoing City Council for the cooperation afforded it by the various city and civic organizations of Glendale, the following communication today was sent by City Manager V. B. Stone to Herman Nelson, chairman of the sewer advisory committee; T. W. Watson, president of the City Planning commission; L. H. Wilson, president of the City Park commission; T. W. Preston, president of the Library board; D. H. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and A. R. Eastman, chairman of the sewer bond advisory committee:

"The mayor and the members of the council who completed their terms of office on Monday, April 20, desire me to thank your honorable body for your co-operation during their term of office.

Personal Sacrifice

"The work rendered by the members of the various boards and committees has required personal sacrifice in time on the part of the individual members and the council wishes you to know that this fact is very much appreciated and to assure you that it will be remembered. The public knows very little of the amount of time and effort required to successfully carry on the affairs of the city and the council realizes that you cannot be properly rewarded, but that each of you has the satisfaction of being able to say, 'I have helped to do my part.'

"It is a personal pleasure to me to be able to transmit this message, to assure you of my appreciation of the good work you have done and to hope that we may continue to enjoy most cordial relations."

SHUTDOWN AVERTED

HIGH SCHOOL BOND ISSUE PROPOSED

New Board To Organize On May 2; Consideration Of Improvements

The annual reorganization session of the Board of Trustees of the Glendale Union High school will be held Saturday noon, May 2, it was announced today. At that time H. V. Adams, incoming member to succeed W. H. Yarick, will assume his seat.

A president and clerk will be elected to succeed President Albert D. Pearce and Secretary Harry V. Brown, and various committees will be appointed.

The Board of Trustees at the present time is considering the proposal of a new bond election in Glendale for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of a school site and a modern building in the northwestern part of the district; for another school in the northern part and for the completion of the Union High school.

It is probable that the high school officials will co-operate with the members of the city Board of Education. The latter has called a meeting of representatives of civic organizations in Glendale for next Tuesday night when a bond issue of $1,000,000 or more for elementary schools will be discussed. A proposed bond issue of $1,200,000 for the same purpose was recently defeated.

LAUNDRY CREW TO PLAY MERCHANTS

Glendale Players Will Face Strong Team Sunday At Local Ball Park

Following the announcement of the touring plans and schedule of the Glendale Merchants, Manager M. R. Bacom steps to the front with the information that the home town boys are in for a real contest Sunday afternoon when they meet the Blue Bird Laundry club of Los Angeles. The visiting team has made a specialty of cleaning up on various strong semi-pro teams in Southern California, and are coming here with the same idea in mind.

Early in the winter season, when the Glendale Merchants were playing under a different banner, the laundry crew put the skids under the locals, being one of the three teams to hand the Merchants a trimming in thirty-eight games. And it was some game, too, 3 to 2, ten innings.

Billy Goodman is manager of the visiting team, former Pacific coast player, having appeared for several seasons with the Portland and San Francisco clubs. He will start Harry Johnson on the mound for the Laundry boys, Manager Bacom will use Red Conkwright, who has won sixteen of the least eighteen games he has hurled. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Skirmishes Take Big Toll

Hard luck seems to be on the trail of the big leagues this season, for a number of players have been injured in exhibition games and during the training season. Below are pictured a few on the hospital list.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

Count that day an exception which doesn't see some big league ball player socked on the initial letter on his uniform by old Joe Hard Luck.

For, judging by the toll taken to date—since the last fall of snow—the year 1925 is going down as a jonah year in baseball—as far as the big leagues are concerned.

Looking over the list that has been compiled since Rabbit Maranville, Cub star, cracked his ankle early in the training season of that team, we find something like a dozen stars of considerable magnitude in their various firmaments, laid up for varying periods with injuries or illnesses.

Babe Ruth heads the list, of course.

Ty Cobb comes next. He was stricken with the grippe before the team got home.

Lu Blue, Cobb's best first sacker, has nursed a poor knee since the first week out.

Denver Grigsby, also a Cub, joined Maranville by cracking his ankle.

Bill Wambsganss, veteran second sacker with the Red Sox, twisted his knee.

Barney Frieberg of the Cubs has been nursing an ankle which he wrenched last year.

Charley Dressen, coming young infielder with the Cinci Reds, has been nursing a stiff arm.

Connie Mack saw his hopes for a flying start wrecked by injuries to Heimach, star pitcher, and Joe Hauser, first baseman and home run star of the Mackmen.

Frankie Frisch, Giant captain, enters the season with a weak ankle, due to a training camp injury.

And so the list goes on. A dozen or more players have fought mild cases of the flu and grippe all spring.

And many of these mishaps are bound to have direct bearing on the outcome of the pennant race.

How long the jinx will remain busy is a matter for conjecture. Half a dozen big league managers are crying for help already.

Only Three Marks Set By Nurmi Recognized

NEW YORK, April 24.—Paavo Nurmi, owner of more than thirty track records, established in this country, will be credited with only three marks by the A. A. U. These are the mile, which he ran in 4:12; the 3000 meters and the two miles.

Explanation for this action was not given by the A. A. U., but it was believed the authorities have decided to recognize only the marks made at standard distances.

DECIDE ON MEET

PALO ALTO, April 24.—Whether Stanford university will send a track team to the I. C. A. A. A. meet in Philadelphia the latter part of next month and to the Pacific coast conference meet in Seattle at the same time will be decided here today. It was believed Stanford would be represented at only one of the two meets.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Those crunching sounds coming from the middle west which suggest a gigantic corn sheller working overtime, are the product of certain baseball experts who announced their willingness to eat their hats if the Cleveland baseball club was in the first division of the American league at the end of the first week of the season.

Cleveland was not only in the first division at the end of the first week, but was in first place. The great battling power of the organization, which was almost wholly overlooked because the team appeared bulky and not always high geared, has held it up in these games, which have been played under conditions which are just to the liking of the team.

The Cleveland club is an outfield team, which, unlike most ball clubs, will have to be crowded when the weather becomes hot instead of when it is cool. Give the Polar Bears at Cleveland plenty of snow, ice and raw winds, and they would win the American league championship with yards to spare. They thrive on cold weather because they can hit in it, when other fragile athletes are doubled up with chills.

In general the Cleveland pitchers are doing much better than they did at the same time last year, which bears out the optimistic assertion of Secretary McNicholls at Lakeland, Florida, that if the Cleveland club didn't have much of anything else, it had pitchers.

Shaute, the man with the Indian name, who never saw an Indian in his life except at the movies, is one of the very few pitchers who have turned in a four-hit game this season. He did it so eraly that it is an omen. If he continues—and he is starting exactly where he left off in 1924—this Cleveland team will be a bogey man all season, and will do its share to uplift the western section of the league.

There also is the Chicago American team which is carrying on right well for the glory of the western section. Some say it is playing better now that it did last season. The club may have a better morale, but it has no better standing in the league. Last season at this time the Sox were well up. It was about the only time all the season that they were up.

In the very first week of the Evers regime there was a certain amount of good cheer which took the Sox along hopefully, but it quickly terminated. The pitching deteriorated and the boys got settled down for a long quarrel.

The big thing to watch about the Sox this season is the work of Davis, who is trying to make a short stop for Collins. When the team was training at Shreveport, Collins tried both Davis and Butler.

He seemed to lean a little toward Butler because of Davis' batting, but when the start came he put Davis in and Davis is fielding at the rate of .900. That isn't very noble for a shortstop but he is likely to do better. As a batsman he isn't even up to 150, and that won't carry him far. Yet he'll stick as long as the Sox win with him in the lineup.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Whether or not Harvard's sharp shooting practice with the football, which is an important phase of spring practice at Cambridge, is being employed elsewhere, the writer knows not.

But certainly the device which the Crimson backfield coaches are using to increase accuracy in throwing the forward pass is likely to prove most valuable and may be recommended to football men everywhere.

Stretches of canvas, each stretch containing a hole about twice as large as a football in circumference, are set on wires and the passers, starting at five yards and moving gradually backward, are required to throw for bull's eyes.

Remarkable improvement in marksmanship is reported from the soldiers' field and men who never before have thrown a ball have become interested in the novel scheme of practice and have developed ability which may make them useful next fall.

There is still a great uncertainty as to just who of the large galaxy of American professional golfers will participate in the British open at Prestwick next June, but the chances are that half a dozen of the outstanding linksmen will go.

The rapidity of the development of high class golf in this country will be appreciated when it is stated that no American professional home bred or otherwise, played in the British open until 1910, fifteen years ago when Willie Smith, a native of Scotland, who had won the American championship went across the sea and did very well, as everyone in this country thought, to land in fifth place.

Yet this great professional tournament goes back into the sixties and the cup for which the players now compete annually—it is now held by Walter Hagen, first went into competition in 1872.

Early efforts of Americans to lift the cup fared no better than that of Willie Smith in 1910. Johnny McDermott went over in 1912, the tournament being at Muir Field, and since he was the first home bred American to compete his invasion was followed by Americans with a great deal of interest.

And when he failed to qualify there was general regret over here and some surprise, too, as Johnny was looked upon as in a class with the best golfers in the world.

Trying again in 1913 McDermott not only qualified but finished fifth which was regarded by American enthusiasts as quite satisfactory inasmuch as he made a fine impression over there.

Eventually, four years ago, Jack Hutchison won the title with Tommy Kerrigan third. Walter Hagen, the Rochester home bred won it in 1922 and repeated in 1924. Thus in the past four years of play for this famous title it has been held in the United States three of those years.

PERUVIAN FLOODS

The electric power plant of Lima, Peru, was so badly damaged by the recent flood that operations in all industries were curtailed to a few hours daily, sugar and cotton planters being the heaviest losers and many small planters financially ruined.

CHAMP MAY TAKE BARNSTORM TRIP

Dempsey May Tour Country, Meeting All Comers, Reports Indicate

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 24.—In the event that nothing further develops in the Dempsey-Wills-Gibbons situation within the next few months, the champion may emulate the performance of the late John L. Sullivan and set out on a tour of this country this summer, meeting any and all comers.

That there is more than a mere possibility that this Barnum and Bailey idea may be carried out was the information that came to the writer from no oblique direction today.

The tour, it was intimated, will be utilized not only to cull the casual dollar but to sharpen the Dempsey eye. The champion himself would neither deny nor affirm the report. He didn't have to. It came from the best of authority.

One of Several

It is one of several projects Dempsey has in mind for the immediate future. Another, of course, involves a championship meeting with Wills or Gibbons some time in September.

But even if Dempsey does sign with one of his challengers, the all-comers thing may lure him on. He realizes that no better preliminary training can be obtained for a championship match than by stepping out lightly with the push-overs. It would improve his general condition, increase his speed and sharpen his judgment of distance. Dempsey, almost two years out of the ring, needs the work more than he needs the money.

He faced the same situation at Shelby where he went to the post against Gibbons exactly two years after the Carpentier affair.

Shelby Alibi

"I was just plain terrible in that fight," Dempsey said today. "I couldn't fight a lick and Gibbons should have given me a better argument. Why, even my training camp bouts showed me at a disadvantage. Martin Burke almost knocked me cold with a left hook one day and the worst of it was that he had hit me with the same punch the day before and I kidded myself that it was an accident.

"George Godfrey, colored heavyweight, mauled me about from time to time and I even had trouble with Billy Wells, welterweight."

Plan Formal Opening Of New Country Club

The formal opening of the Los Serranos Country club will take place tomorrow afternoon. An interesting program has been arranged for the debut of the club. Ed Tufts, president of the Golf Association of Southern California, will drive the first ball. A four-ball match has been arranged between George Von Elm, Clare Griswold, Chick Fraser and Hutt Martin. A dance and banquet will conclude the program.

OVERCOMES LEAD

Overcoming a five run lead and driving Van Gilder from the box, Cleveland swamped the Browns 14 to 9.

Goslin Hates Goose Eggs

LEON ALLEN GOSLIN, outfielder for the Washington Senators, world champions, who drove in more runs last season than any other player in the league, proved that he is not web-footed by stealing a bunch of bases, and rapped out 199 hits.

Alexander And Newman Open New Fight Club

Vic Alexander, colored heavyweight, is matched with Nick Newman in the ten-round main event at Kid Mexico's Huntington Beach club tonight. This bout will mark the reopening of the club, which has been idle since Mexico returned to the active part of the boxing game several months ago.

Bobby Bridges and Young Sam Langford, lightweight, are set to go six rounds in the semi-windup. Langford boxed a draw with Sailor Carter at Wilmington Wednesday night. He is in great shape for this bout. Billy Ryan and Joe Mendivil, bantamweights, will also go six rounds. They are boxing the special event. Manual Jurardo mingles with Johnny Guinto in four rounds at 128 pounds. Kid Lucero and Young Garcia, bantamweights, open the show in a four-round bout.

ERRORS LOSE GAME

The Detroit errors in the ninth inning, two by Blue and one by Haney, gave the Chicago White Sox a 1 to 0 victory.

RED SOX BEATEN

The tail-ender Red Sox dropped another game, Philadelphia winning 15 to 4.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

Because his last name came close to being a seven letter word meaning goose Mr. Leon Allen Goslin, illustrious outfielder of the world's champion Senators, was named "Goose" shortly after he began to waddle.

And now, despite the fact that he can't be accused of having web feet and has a serious aversion for goose eggs, the name sticks.

That he isn't web-footed is indicated by his speed on the bases. He picks 'em up and lays 'em down too rapidly. The fact that he scored just 100 runs for the champions last year, stretched 199 hits into 299 bases, and stole sixteen sacks, proves that his feet carry no mud.

And he does ruin the goose-egg row in the inning by inning scores. Just when a pitcher feels he has reached an easy inning and decides to take a full breath Goose gets his tail feathers up and brings the pitcher down with a ringing base hit that pokes a couple of runs across.

Goslin led the league last year in driving in runs. Just 129 fellow players romped home on his hits. He scored 100 himself, as mentioned. Which made Mr. Goslin mainly responsible for just 219 tallies for his team, about a third of the total number they scored.

All of this but five years after he said a sad farewell to the budding trees and the flatboat bogged in the barnyard and sailed forth from his dad's farm in Salem, N. H., to become a big leaguer.

Goslin had his heart set on becoming a Walter Johnson. Figured then that Walter might be through by 1925 instead of just entering his novitiate as a world's series hero. But Leon socked the ball at such a lively rate for the Charleston club in the South Atlantic League that he was converted into an outfielder. Which made him a member in good standing of the loyal order of used-to-be-pitchers.

Goslin is also a member of the alumni association of Connie Mack's kindergarten school. The tall leader grabbed him from Columbia, where Goslin then was playing, in the fall of 1921 and, after looking him over turned him back. That's where the Senators stepped into Goslin's life and Goslin stepped into fame.

Goslin hit only 12 home runs in the regular season last year. But it turned out later he was saving his stuff. Pitted against the wise old Jawn McGraw and his obedient pitchers Goslin proceeded to unlimber his bat and collect three circuit clouts. This little feat tied the record of the mighty Ruth. Goslin collected a total of 21 bases on his hits in that memorable series. Which gave him one record all his own.

"And this is another year," remarks Goslin, as he starts doing his stuff. He is quite confident that it will be a good one for him and the Senators. If he keeps driving in runs the way he did last season the seven other clubs will have something to worry about most of the season.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

NEW YORK, April 24.—Tex Rickard was all set for Jack Dempsey when the champion and his wife accompanied by Joe Benjamin arrived in this city from the West.

"I never have believed that Dempsey is out of the fighting game," said Rickard, "but I shall have a clearer idea as to our future plans when I meet him than I have just now. All I can say is that when Jack fights again in a big eastern show I shall be the promoter.

"Wills and Gibbons seem to be his logical opponents just now, but you can never tell what will happen by the time the outdoor season is over. Some good youngsters are in the background working up, and of course it is among the youngsters that you have to look for the future champion."

Dempsey won't be in New York long. The report is that he has booked to sail for Europe with his wife on Monday. There will be no fighting on this trip. The journey will be in the interest of Dempsey's movie affairs.

In fact those who know the bride and groom will say that so long as Mrs. Jack is the boss of the family, Dempsey will not enter the ring. In this stand it is said Jack's mother, who has taken a strong fancy to her daughter-in-law, is supporting the wife.

Want of money, declare these friends, is the only incentive strong enough to make Dempsey face a formidable opponent and the way things are now the champion is not due to face any immediate shortage, to say the least.

In the meantime, it is interesting to watch the different tactics of Eddie Kane and Billy Gibson, managers of Gibbons and Tunney respectively. While Kane is ballyhooing to the limit, Gibson is following his usual practice of silence. In this way he always stands to gain publicity through the rival manager. That is, he refrains from harping on the greatness of his fighter and permits the rival to grab the spotlight.

The reason for this lies in the outcome of the fight. Should his man lose at the hands of the exploited fighter the defeat will not mean so much in the minds of the public who figure no doubt that a beating at the hands of a fighter so great as the rival has been made out to be is no disgrace. But should his man win, the added prestige of whipping a supposedly great battler makes the victory all the more noteworthy.

TWO RACES CLASH IN L. A. SATURDAY

Nurmi Represents Vikings Against Zuni Indians Of New World

When Paavo Nurmi, "Phantom Finn," flings dust beneath his wonderful legs in the Los Angeles coliseum April 25 the present-day speed merchants of two ancient races will clash.

Across the seas from his native heath of fens and lakes, Nurmi will come to put his swift feet and highly-arched chest against the experienced distance runners of the historic Indian tribes of New Mexico and California.

For the first time since he whirled into fame in the Olympic games, the fleet Finn will match his speed with athletes trained as himself. He will race against men cast in his own mould, challenging runners conditioned on simple diet and whose strength is unsapped by modern civilization's "jazz" life.

For the Far-West's Indian runners, like Nurmi, have raced since they were babies on their reservations dotting the lonely desert.

Train on Trails

Year after year they have developed their legs dashing over trails of sun-baked clay and in modern ovals of Indian schools and colleges.

Keen interest has been injected into the picturesque clash of Nurmi of the Vikings and the runners from the Zuni tribe of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico and the Redmen of California, representing one of the world's oldest races.

No one knows just what the Pueblos and their California brethren can do on the track.

But they have never been defeated in competition with white men.

At their colleges and institutes annually Indian distance runners are turned out to triumph over their pale-faced competitors. Whenever the Redskins and the stars of Far-Western university track teams have clashed the Indians have emerged victors.

Never Pushed Hard

Never has the real speed and endurance of these Indians been tested and their work under genuine competition is unknown.

Some of the Zuni Indians are said to be as fleet as the swift runners in the storied days of early America, as told by Fenimore Cooper, the novelist, and Longfellow, the poet.

In the tribal men from the Southwest, with their bronzed muscles and long black hair, the blonde runner from Finland may find a real challenge and a genuine test of his remarkable ability. Nurmi may even meet his long-predicted defeat in the lanky legs of some unknown desert runner.

Followers of the Indian runners have made plans to come to Los Angeles to watch their chosen youths contest the mad flight of the great Finn. In their gay blankets and quaint robes they will occupy a special cheering section in the coliseum, seating more than 70,000, and which is expected to hold a capacity crowd in the unique contest arranged for Nurmi's Pacific debut.

XI—Swimming Aids

While on the subject of breathing, I will mention the relation of the breathing to swimming, and explain how a person who is afraid of the water can learn to be at home in the water, by practicing the trick of proper breathing when in the water.

This will enable a poor swimmer to swim for miles, and make it easy for the beginner to learn. In teaching beginners to swim I teach them to be at home in the water first and eliminate all fear of the water. After which they will very quickly learn to swim almost any stroke efficiently.

The fear of the water is usually caused by strangulation, which will always happen when the swimmer tries to breathe through the nose. Air can be and is usually exhaled through the nose while the nose is under water. This trick prevents water from entering the nose and causing strangulation.

For a new breath of air, the head is turned sideways, the mouth opened sideways and quite wide, inhaling as much air as one can in the time their mouth is out of water, then turn the face under water and exhale through the nose and mouth. Pucker the mouth slightly as if whistling, and some force has to be used to expel the air this way.

It is best to practice this trick while holding on the side of the tank with the hands, relieving the feeling of fear when the face is under water. This trick is not as easy as it sounds, the first time it is tried, but a little practice and it becomes very natural, and the fear of the water disappears.

This trick can be learned at home in a basin of water deep enough to cover the face. The hair need not become wet as it might in a swimming tank. Drying the hair is bothersome to the ladies and takes plenty of time that could be used for something else. The easiest trick in the water is floating.

DARKENED WINDOWS

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

Copyright, D. Appleton & Co. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

Estelle gave a harsh laugh. "Not good enough, Miss Smith; not even plausible," she sneered. "I don't doubt you were frightened, but it wasn't the cries of a little dog which frightened you. It was your own act which sent you flying down in a panic. It was the sight of my father lying there dead—dead by your hand."

Estelle's accusation struck on Graham's ear like the hiss of a reptile. It startled even Inspector Breitman in his corner. But Miss Smith, chastened by remorse, moist and disheveled from much weeping till she presented somewhat the appearance of a cat that had made the acquaintance of the water, but could still turn on her enemy and show her claws.

"Accuse me, does she? I like that!" she screamed. "She's a nice one to call murderer to me! Ask her what she was doing those fifteen minutes. That's what I say. Who gets the most good by shooting him? I ask you that. I lose a soft job, mighty soft; and she gets a fortune. Do you suppose if her father had known she was married to a German she'd have got a cent of his money? Not on your life! And nobody knew it better than she did."

"That sounds like an accusation, a very serious accusation, Miss Smith. You shouldn't make a charge like that without proof," Flint warned her.

"Didn't she accuse me, I'd like to know, and did you ask her for proof?" demanded Miss Smith, ready with her retort. "But if it's proof you want, look at that!" She pointed excitedly to the pistol, which, wrapped in the handkerchief as Flint had found it, lay on the table. "You've got the proof there yourself; you've known all along." Her voice rose even shriller and higher. "That's her handkerchief; she can't deny it. There's her name worked on it, and it's all spotted with blood!"

Flint gave her a quizzical glance. "Sharp eyes you have to see the name at that distance! See in the dark like a cat, can't you? But you're right about the name—it's there." He held up the handkerchief. "I guess you didn't realize that you left what amounts to your own name on the pistol when you found it down in the stuffing of the sofa."

"I don't know what you mean about a pistol," blustered Miss Smith.

"Oh, yes, you do. You found it, you know, when you were hunting for the hatpin that scratched you, and you left your fingerprints on it, clear as day. You didn't know that I had taken your fingerprints, did you? But I had—never mind how or when. I take it you put Miss Hurst's handkerchief there to divert suspicion from Von Eulen—or yourself. Perhaps, though, it was simply because you hated Miss Hurst and wanted to injure her?"

Miss Smith maintained a sullen silence.

With the familiarity of an old servant, Denis broke in unbidden. "If there's blood on Miss Estelle's handkerchief, 'tis the young woman herself knows how it came there," he quavered. "Like as not she had it on her that very night. 'Tis not above making free with other people's belongings she is. More than once have I caught her picking up here and there."

"I will look into that, Denis," said Flint abstractedly. He was handling first one, then another of the objects on the table before him, as if uncertain how to proceed.

"There has been a charge and counter charge made here," he said slowly. "Which is true, which is false, or is either true?

"Those are the questions before us. Suppose we take up the events of the night, one by one, and see how they answer them."

Graham's eyes were on Estelle. He had seen her once before in a moment of stress, and now, as then, he watched rage give place to sudden frozen calm. She sat leaning forward, elbow on knee, chin in hand, watching Flint intently from beneath narrowed lids. She was very pale and blue shadows lay beneath her eyes and around her mouth. Except for such signs of excitement, Graham would have thought her quite unmoved by Miss Smith's accusation, and careless of what was to come. Was her demeanor that of innocence, he wondered, or was it an exhibition of superb self-mastery?

"As Miss Hurst—or, I should say, Mrs. Von Eulen—has admitted the fact of her marriage, we may pass over the evidence I had collected to prove it," began Flint. "I will only say that the minister who performed the ceremony has been traced, and that, unknown to them, he has identified both parties. Mr. Otto Blankenburg, who owns the house next to the one where Miss Hurst was to have dined, is a friend of Von Eulen's, and had loaned him his house for the occasion. When Miss Hurst went up the steps of the apparently unoccupied house, Von Eulen and the minister were there waiting for her. This explained, we will commence with the return of the newly married pair to the Hurst house. What their object was is a matter of guesswork." He stopped for an instant and glanced at Estelle as if expecting an answer to his riddle, but she made no sign.

"They did not come back, it is clear, with the intention of murdering Mr. Hurst," he went on, "for they supposed that he was dining at Colonel Sanford's. It may have been for the lady to change her dress, as she did, or it may have been to give her the opportunity of appropriating certain rings she wanted."

Again he paused, and again Estelle made no sign.

"That she did get them, we know, for she told them, through a former governess, to Mr. Hermann Tessler. They have been discovered in his collection. The clue which led us to the purloiner of the rings is here."

He opened the sealed envelope and produced two green spangles.

"Identified by the maid Marie as being from the gown worn for the first time that evening by her young mistress," he explained. "One found in the tray among the rings, the other on the cuff of Mr. Von Eulen's overcoat when, as Mr. Brown, he was on his way to Albany in pursuit, we think, of his wife who had disappeared. She was last seen in the Forty-second street station, waiting, apparently, for some one who did not come. She appeared agitated. Presumably it was her husband she was waiting for. Probably they had planned to meet at the station, he going on ahead to make arrangements, she remaining behind for a short time to change her dress and pack a bag. Please correct me if I am wrong, Mrs. Von Eulen. Unfortunately for their plans we had become suspicious of Von Eulen in connection with certain anarchistic activities, and had been having him shadowed for some time—quite in vain, I must confess. Von Eulen is a clever chap. I take it that he discovered he was being followed that evening, and was afraid to rejoin his wife till he had shaken off the trailer. He did shake him off at last, but by that time it was too late; his wife probably thinking something was wrong, had disappeared. Why she selected her old governess to take refuge with, I don't know. If she were in trouble, she might seek the one person in the world truly devoted to her—I don't know."

Again he seemed to wait for an explanation, but Estelle vouchsafed none, so he continued:

The next day Mr. Graham very cleverly picked up the trail which my man had lost, and helped us very materially in establishing the identity of Brown of the underworld with Von Eulen of the world of fashion. But that is neither here nor there—that is another story."

"Do you think it was playing the game with me, Flint, to conceal the fact that you knew that Von Eulen had left the house before Hannibal Hurst was shot, and so had crossed him off your list of suspects?" Graham took advantage of Flint's pause to ask, airing the grievance he had been nursing for some minutes. He felt distinctly abused, and allowed his tone to show it.

"Not guilty, not guilty, Mr. Graham," Flint protested. "I didn't cross him off till a couple of days ago. I didn't tell you this morning, because I wanted to make a dramatic hit with my news at this little gathering—a weakness I hope you will forgive. You see, the man I put on to trail Von Eulen that night met with a bad accident, and was taken to the hospital before he could make his report. He was only able to give it within the last few days. How I happened to have Von Eulen shadowed belongs to that other story I spoke of. That will keep. You know something of it, Mr. Graham, too much for your comfort the other day; the others don't."

He replaced the two spangles carefully in the envelope and laid it on the table.

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S INDIAN TURNIP

Near the edge of the brook it flowed through the woods, Jackie and Peetie, Bow Bow were playing in the stream. Regular water dogs they were that day, jumping in and splashing out again, shaking the drops from their shaggy coats.

"I can make a bigger splash than you," barked Jackie to his brother.

"I'd like to see you," growled Peetie, but the growl was only in fun, you understand.

"Look!" howled Jackie, and into the brook he splashed, sending the water high in a shower like a fountain, while the sun tinted the drops all the colors of the rainbow.

"Pooh! I can splash bigger 'n that!" laughed Peetie, and he jumped so hard that he went down deep in the water and was stuck in the mud beneath. So tightly was he stuck that he couldn't pull his legs out.

"Oh, Jackie! Jackie! Help me!" begged Peetie.

So Jackie kindly held out his paws to his brother and with a long pull and a strong pull, hauled him safely out on shore. But poor Peetie was quite muddy, and had to sozzle himself in a pool of the brook to get clean.

Jackie helped wash the mud off his brother, and then the two little puppies sat on the grassy bank of the brook, in the sun, to dry their coats of curly hair. As they sat there Jackie reached over and saw, growing near him, the plant which is called Jack-in-the-Pulpit. It wasn't named after Jackie Bow Bow, though you might have thought so.

Hardly thinking what he was doing, Jackie pulled this plant up by the roots.

"Oh, look, Peetie!" barked Jackie. "See what funny round things growing on this root of the Jack-in-the-Pulpit," and dangling with the lumps of warm, brown earth on the plant were a number of round balls.

"I know what those are," Peetie said. "They are Indian turnips. Sammie Littletail told me about them. Indian turnips they are."

"Well, if they are turnips, we ought to take them to Uncle Wiggily," barked Jackie. "Uncle Wiggily, being a rabbit, likes turnips and things like that. But we dogs only eat meat and gnaw bones, and sometimes cake, when we can get it."

"And cookies, too, only we haven't any," growled Peetie.

"Yes, cookies, too," agreed Jackie. "But I know what let's do."

"What?" asked Peetie, who was almost dry now.

"Let's take these Indian turnips to Uncle Wiggily. He'll be glad to get them and may be he'll give us some pennies and then we can buy some cookies in the store."

"Oh, that'll be fun!" barked Peetie. So the two little doggie boys ran off through the woods, carrying with them the Indian turnip root of the Jack-in-the-Pulpit plant. When they were half way to Uncle Wiggily's house, Peetie said he was hungry.

"So am I," barked Jackie. "Maybe, for once, we could eat a little of this Indian turnip. There will be enough left for Uncle Wiggily."

"All right," agreed Peetie. "Let's do it!" So those foolish little puppies each took a bite of the Indian turnip root, but the next moment they gave howls of pain, for their tongues burned like fire, and tears came into their eyes. Then they rubbed their eyes with their paws and more tears came, for some of the juice from the Indian turnips was on their paws.

"Oh, water! Water! What happened?" barked Jackie as he and his brother made a dash for the brook and took deep drinks. "Did a snake bite us,"

"No, it wasn't a snake," spoke a laughing voice, and there stood Uncle Wiggily. He looked at the Jack-in-the-Pulpit plant on the ground and said: "Never eat any Indian turnips, Jackie and Peetie. It has a nice name, but the turnips are not good to eat. They burn little doggies' tongues and smart little doggies' eyes. Never touch Jack-in-the-Pulpit roots again."

"We never will," sighed the puppies, as they held their hot tongues in the cool brook. And Uncle Wiggily told them never, when in the woods to eat anything unless they made sure by asking him or some one who knew whether it was good or not. So Jackie and Peetie learned rather a hard lesson.

Diplomatic Attache In Fight With Policeman

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Diplomatic circles were stirred today by the arrest of Senor Don Jorge Blacud Jofre, attache of the Bolivian embassy, following a fight with a policeman. Jofre was finally overpowered and taken to a police station, where he claimed diplomatic immunity and was released. The attache battled with Policeman W. J. Middleton in a restaurant, according to police records, when the latter attempted to quell a disturbance caused by Jofre and a party of friends.

The policeman charged Jofre's party was "passing a bottle around," and tried to force him to take a drink. Jofre fought arrest, and in the battle the policeman was thrown through a glass door, suffering cuts on his limbs.

'ENEMY SHIPS' WAIT SIGNAL FOR 'WAR'

'Black' Forces Drawing Near To Oahu Island To Be 'Battle' Scene

By WILLIAM A. CAYCE
For International News Service.

HONOLULU, April 24.—The "black" and the "blue" forces of the American navy awaited the zero hour today. At any time a declaration of "war" was expected from Washington, launching the greatest maneuvers the United States battle fleet has ever attempted.

While the "black" forces were making last minute defense plans of the island of Oahu, the attacking "blue" fleet approached cloaked in mystery and silence.

As the mighty invading forces moved slowly toward Honolulu, scouts of the "black" forces maintained keen search for the first glimpse of the "enemy." Intelligence officers of the defense forces said they exepected to sight the "blue" forces some time tonight.

Airplanes Busy

Airplanes of the "blacks" are already sweeping the skies for a radius of fifty miles.

Indications were today that the maneuvers would be in full swing by Saturday or Sunday, when the navy department will inform Admiral Robison that the "enemy" has captured Oahu and he is free for a trial at re-taking the territory. At the same time the war department will instruct army forces on Oahu of the impending attack.

Then the "blues" and "blacks" will fight it out, the umpires aboard the U. S. S. Seattle, neutral ship, receiving minute reports of the progress of the battle.

The council assembled at 10 o'clock a. m. Present: Kimlin, Kinch, MacBain, Tower; vacancy, one. Minutes of April 20th read and approved.

S. A. Davis

S. A. Davis addressed the council stating that in his opinion his successor had not qualified, therefore he was entitled to remain seated as a member of the council until such time as his successor did qualify, and demanded that his name be called in the official roll call. City attorney ruled that Mr. Davis was not entitled to the chair, and that his name should not be called.

In accordance with call, bids were publicly opened, examined and declared for the improvement of Eden avenue and other streets, from the following bidders: The Fry Bros. Contracting Co., J. Paul Benson, Hugh Cornwell, W. J. Curren, C. L. Hill, John W. Henderson, Frank R. Mosher, Gibbons & Reed Co. Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman Tower, that bids be referred to city engineer for checking and report. Duly carried. S. A. Davis again demanded that his name be called in the official roll call.

Moved by Councilman Tower, seconded by Councilman Kimlin, duly carried, that petition be referred to city clerk for checking and verification.

Bond Issue—Memorial Hall

Lyman Clark presented a communication signed by the Patriotic and Memorial Hall association, asking that a special election be called for the purpose of voting upon a proposed bond issue in the sum of $150,000.00 to finance a Patriotic and Memorial hall to be erected upon American Legion property. S. C. Kinch

P. J. Hayselden presented to the council a communication from the planning commission, regarding S. C. Kinch, former member. Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman Tower, that communication be received and spread in full upon the minutes: "Gentlemen:

"Mr. S. C. Kinch having resigned as a member of the Glendale Planning Commission on Monday, April 20th, 1925, due to his election as a member of the City Council of Glendale, we, the undersigned, members of the Glendale City Planning Commission do herewith give attestation to the worth of Mr. S. C. Kinch as a citizen and to his splendid and conscientious efforts as a member of the Planning Commission in serving our city.

"We regret the loss of him as a member of our commission, such loss however is the gain of the commonwealth and causes us to believe that his past work is a splendid criterion of what our citizens may expect and will receive of him as a councilman.

"Our best wishes and highest respect follow him. May he merit the same from his new associates. T. W. Watson, P. J. Hayselden, Harry Hague, J. H. Randall."

Fireworks Ordinance

P. J. Hayselden, representing the Angeles Forest Protective association, addressed the council, calling attention to an ordinance enacted by the city of Glendale whereby the shooting of firecrackers and other explosives was prohibited, yet did not prohibit the sale of such, and asked that protective measures safeguarding fire hazard be enacted. Moved by Councilman Tower, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that City Attorney be instructed to draft an ordinance prohibiting the sale of firecrackers and like explosives in the city of Glendale. Duly carried.

Hearings

The clerk notified the council that this was the time, hour and place fixed for hearing protests against the widening and opening of Cumberland road, as particularly described in Ordinance of Intention No. 1047, passed by the council on the 12th day of March, 1925, and the clerk also reported to the council that he had received a protest signed by Clarinda Parker. Whereupon, the mayor asked if there were any interested persons present who desired to be heard, and all interested persons having been given full opportunity to show cause why the proposed opening and widening should not be carried out in accordance with the said ordinance of intention, and all objections having been heard and considered, on motion of Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman Tower, all protests were denied. Duly carried.

Continued Hearing

Clerk informed the council that this was the time set for continued hearing to set aside a commercial district, Central avenue between Park and Acacia. Same having been referred to the planning commission was returned with recommendation that request be granted. Moved by Councilman Kimlin, seconded by Councilman Tower, duly carried, that city attorney be instructed to draft the necessary amendment.

Council Recognizes Muhleman Not Elected

fied, each candidate moves up a position, giving a four year term to Kinch instead of two years.

He indicated that he will attempt to hold his council seat until "the courts have rectified the error of the council," when S. C. Kinch will be his successor. When that occurs, he holds, Gilhuly will assume his rightful place.

But, up to the present time the council has held with City Attorney Morrow that there is no vacancy until the required fifteen days have elapsed. The councilmen took no action on Muhleman's letter in which he withdrew as councilman-elect and advised the city that he was not qualified to become an official because of the fact that he had not resided in the city the required length of time after an absence for a period of several years.

Alter Plans

The council tentatively planned to wait until the meeting of May 5, when the fifteen-day period would have elapsed and Muhleman automatically dropped from the roll for failure to take the oath of office, to appoint his successor.

Now, however, the council minutes indicate that his place has already been declared vacant. And it follows, according to dopesters who are interestedly watching the tangle, that Muhleman, then, never was elected. That would automatically make Gilhuly the fifth man on the council.

Davis, in holding his council seat, has declared that he does not intend to attempt to remain a member after a legal successor has been selected for his chair. He is not a candidate for appointment to the position, in the event the council appoints a man to fill the "vacancy," he has announced.

Here's Situation

The situation, slowly untangling itself, can be summed up about as follows at the present time:

Muhleman has been held by the council to have been illegally elected and his office declared vacant.

Davis has declared that he still is a member of the council and will continue a member until a legal successor is qualified.

The council has refused to recommend Davis in its sessions or to call his name on official roll calls.

City Attorney Morrow has ruled that the council should wait for fifteen days from the time Muhleman was notified of his election before declaring the office vacant.

Gilhuly is held by Davis and many others to be the rightful fifth member of the council.

And from the sidelines the odds are about even with the apparent action of the council as indicated by the official minutes giving Davis a little the longer end.

The ringside seats are eagerly awaiting the gong to sound the next round.

LEGISLATORS PRIME FOR GET-AWAY

State Lawmakers Rush Final Bills For Adjournment At Noon Tomorrow

SACRAMENTO, April 24.—Both houses of the Legislature today settled down to the disposal of the final batch of proposed statutes, with indications that the clock would be stopped at noon tomorrow, the hour set for adjournment.

The eleventh hour jam in the assembly was relieved to some extent by the passage of several score bills at a night session, but both houses still have many important matters to pass on.

The two Breed motor vehicle bills, making changes in the laws governing headlights and the registration of cars, are yet to be disposed of. The measures struck a snag in the senate last night when the upper house refused to concur in an assembly amendment prohibiting driving with an open muffler.

The probe of the narcotic problem will be conducted by a legislative committee which will report to the next legislature.

Short-line steam railroads would be taxed at the same rate as electric roads, rather than on 7 per cent of their gross receipts, under a constitutional amendment adopted in the Assembly. This amendment, which had previously been endorsed by the Senate, would save the short-line roads, many of which are said to be in financial difficulties, approximately $100,000 per year in taxes.

PARIS SUBWAY MADE SCENE OF RIOTS

Clubs Brought Into Play In French Capital In War Between Politicians

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service

PARIS, April 24.—New rioting broke out among the Communists and Nationalists today following the killing last night of three Nationalists and the wounding of seven other Communists.

Armed with clubs, Communists early today attacked a group of young Nationalists who were serving as a body guard for Deputy Tattinger. The battle waged up and down stairs on a subway station and twelve men were injured.

The Communist-National outbreak took on an air of national importance when President Doumergue announced at a meeting of the cabinet this morning that he would appear in the Chamber of Deputies and answer interpellations by Deputy Barnemary regarding the killings.

Nationalists Ambushed

The attack on the Nationalists by Communists was prompted by political discussion over the municipal election which takes place shortly. The killings took place in the southwestern part of the country. A large crowd of Communists ambushed the young Nationalists who were said to have been unarmed.

The Communists lined them up against a wall and fired on them at a distance of twenty feet.

The Bulgarian government assured the allies it would "act as mercifully as possible and would not take measures more drastic than necessary."

Invoted guests were: Misses Dorothy Schenck, Margaret Jones, Ruth Downs, Inez Echart, Mildred Thompson, Teresa, Hilda and Erma Frauenberger, Marguerite Naughton, Mabel Malmsbury, Helen Gaskin and Mrs. Fisher. Mrs. Fisher is a graduate of Glendale High school and has many friends here.

BOSTON, April 24.—Argentine peaches and black grapes are being sold in this market, the former at 20 to 25 cents each and the latter at 75 cents a pound.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 24.—There was not sufficient buying power in the stock market today to lift it out of the narrow rut it has occupied for the better part of the week. Irregular price movements characterized the most important divisions of the speculative market, a number of the railroad stocks advancing in good form, while others, like Union Pacific, dropped to the lowest levels of the year.

Industrial stock leaders were unusually inactive, their recent strength having discouraged bearish traders from any new demonstrations against the stocks which declined so easily in the first three days of the week.

Firmness of coppers and of copper metal prices was due to an announcement that a curtailment of production would be into effect until present surpluses are consumed or until the buying market shows signs of revival.

Bethlehem's quarterly statement excited favorable comment. Independent stocks were not in any great demand after the first hour. United States Steel had an unusually inactive day, with the trend of prices slightly higher. Consolidated Gas was the leader of the forward movement in the utility stocks, with American Water Works, Philadelphia, Co., Northern Co. and Utah Securities.

The oil stock boom seemed to have died down, most of these shares dropping back to the low levels of the week.

The northwestern rails were under selling pressure, Great Northern preferred and Northern Pacific joining Union Pacific in a decline to new low prices for the year. Chicago & Alton stocks were reactionary, while St. Paul made a slight recovery. Local traction stocks and bonds, including the Hudson & Manhattan, Brooklyn, Manhattan and Interborough lines, sold fractionally higher on reports that the New York Railway Co.'s receivership would be lifted May 1. Merger talk in the sugar industry was without effect on sugar stocks. Equipment stocks were dull, but steady.

Selling pressure increased in the last hour and prices swung downward to the low of the day. Week-end profit taking and evening up of speculative accounts started with selling of the motor stocks and spread to the industrials.

Mack Trucks sold down nearly 6 points, from 147¼ to 141¾, Maxwell "B" broke 4 points, to 75½. General Motors and other active stocks in this group lost about 1 point each. Radio Corp. lost 3 points, at 59¼. Baldwin lost 2; American Can 2; General Electric 2; rails lost practically all their early advance, and oils were offered at concessions of a point or more. Pacific Oil lost 2 points and Marland 1½.

Commercial Solvents "E" stock lost 12 points on a small volume of sales, and sold down to 100, against a high of 185 registered in February. The market showed no tendency to rally at the close. Final prices were near the low of the day.

Stock sales, 1,008,500 shares; bonds, $13,502,000.

AT VERDUGO CITY

VERDUGO CITY, April 24.—Another neighborhood get-together party was held last night at the Fowler auditorium, given by the Verdugo City Association of Commerce. Harry N. Fowler, president of the association, introduced Miss Mary Olsen, niece of Thomas Devine of Montrose, who gave several piano selections.

An old-fashioned square dance was staged by the older generation. Thomas Devine, former vaudeville performer, sang several songs. Miss E. Duncan, daughter of the fire chief, sang "Alone." A short session for serious talk was held. J. Scully, president of the La Crescenta Mutual Water Co., gave a talk on the water question. While assuring his audience there was plenty of water in the valley, Mr. Scully stated it was time to look into the future, to lay the proper mains and make the system adequate for the valley which is growing so tremendously. There are now, according to Mr. Scully, 955 meters in the district served by this company.

"The great question today in the valley is whether to incorporate, to annex or to stay as we are," Harry Fowler said. "This question is being agitated throughout the various business men's organizations. By adding thirty-two new poles in Montrose it will add 23 cents to our present light taxes."

Mr. Fowler told of the country fair being planned for the week of June 1 to June 5. The Elks' band of Glendale will play on the big opening night. There will be a bazaar and show booth where women may exhibit fancy work. There will be dancing on the new outdoor platform recently erected.

A bountiful supper was served, Mrs. Agnes Wooley in charge with an efficient corps of helpers who donated the delicious cakes, pies and sandwiches. Mr. Devine furnished a large supply of the baked beans and potato chips. A. T. Cobb, of the Cobb grocery, donated the cream and sugar. Mrs. Oscar Johnson donated the coffee. Lavender and yellow flowers were used on the long tables. Dancing was continued until midnight.
